Conservation A Way Of Life On Dauphin County Dairy Farm

Conservation pervades nearly all aspect of Bryncoed Jersey Farm — from the use of extensive contour stripping, rotational grazing, and using shredded newspaper as bedding and eventual soil amendment to the use of inexpensive materials to conserve on costs, labor, and time. MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — A conservation "philosophy" pervades nearly every aspect of Bryncoed Jersey Farm — from the use of extensive contour stripping, rotational grazing, and using shredded newspaper as bedding and soil amendment to the use of inexpensive materials to conserve on costs, labor, and time.

Tom Williams, Dauphin County Conservation Farmer of the Year, is concerned that, if 1995 proves to be a drought year, he has the presence of mind — and the cultural practices in place — to ensure soil retention and land productivity.

"Every drop of rain that falls on this farm, I want it to stay here," said Williams. "When it goes down the stream, it's taking my fertility and my moisture that my crops need."

For Williams, moisture is money. His father, Sam, built a farm pond 60 years ago. Forty years ago, another farm pond was constructed to retain as much moisture as possible to help "shore up" water for crop irrigation.

Indeed, much of the conservation practices on the farm were in place since the 1930s, including strips, diversions, and terraces. Altogether, 8,100 feet of terraces, 2,300 feet of diversions, and two acres of waterways have been installed. Also, the Williamses make use of a gravity-flow earthen manure pit. The manure is injected into the corn fields.

"My conservation technician says we got most everything done," said Williams.

Together with his wife, Theresa

Govenor Appoints . PDA Regional Directors

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Gov. Tom Ridge has appointed three people to serve as regional directors for the state Department of Agriculture, according to department news releases made this week.

State Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius stated that he is pleased with the governor's appointments.

"I'm pleased (they) have agreed to serve as one of Gov. Ridge's agriculture advocates," Brosius said. "(They) will join a team that is working to promote Pennsylvania's number one industry, which produces an abundant food supply for 12 million Pennsylvanians.

"We intend to meet the governor's goal of carrying agriculture forward in profitability and stature."

In addition to its headquarters building in Harrisburg, the PDA has seven regional offices. The three appointments are the first among several expected to be made within the department over the next several weeks.

All three directors are to oversee the work of PDA inspectors and services in their respective

58 Farms Apply For Distinction

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Leaders of the Dairy of Distinction program met Tuesday to review the program and prepare for judging of the current group of applicants. Pennsylvania State Secretary Paul Nichols announced that 58 new applications from across the state have been received.

District chairpersons were given these applications to begin the task of roadside inspection of each farm by a local panel of judges. All judging is to be completed in the month of May. The state is divided into 10 districts each with its own local group that runs the local judging and award events.

To date, more than 500 beautiful farms have been given the Dairy of Distinction designation in Pennsylvania. The program also is in operation in New York and New Jersey.

In the election of officers, all present leaders were returned to their posts. Dan Baker, president; Russ Rooks, vice president; Donna Gearhart, treasurer; Nichols, secretary; and Steve Spencer, advisor.

The group made plans to again meet the first day of Ag Progress Days in the events building. At that time the winners will be invited to get together for a social and to view the portraits of each farm that are presented by Lancaster Farming.

Pa.DHIA Board Of Directors Reorganizes

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The 1995 Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (Pa.DHIA) Board of Directors held a reorganizational meeting Wednesday at South Ridge Motor Inn in State College.

Elected to serve as its president was Lane Sollenberger, a member from Franklin County.

Sollenberger was elected to the state board of directors in April 1992 and has served on the

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was generally good; seller offerings were adequate and clearing satisfactorily. Live supplies were moderate, instances light; weights were mixed and irregular. Processor schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 51 to 62 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, supplies of boneless skinless breasts continued to tighten at several plants, but were still at least adequate for immediate delivery. Bone-in breasts were fully adequate. Leg quarters were adequate and clearances were slow in some instances. Wings were adequate to tight.

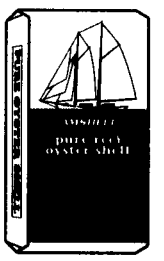
TIPS TO IMPROVE EGGSHELL QUALITY...

Dr Milton Scott
Nutritional Consultant

"Check calcium separation"

Samples taken at different locations in the same feed line at the hopper outlet, the far end of the house and at the return, often show a wide variation in calcium levels. Both excessive levels (which cause hens to back off feed) and low levels---prevent adequate calcium intake and cause poor shell quality. Oyster shell's specific gravity (0.86) is close to that of a typical layer ration. This helps prevent Ca separation and build up.



For details on sampling for Ca separation, and the use of oyster shells, contact The Fox Co., PO Box 708, Newfield, NJ 08344.

RESENDING FOR FUTURES WORLD NEWS

Daily National Grain Summary

Mostly a weather market. Wheat 2 cents lower to 1 cent higher, except Kansas City 5 cents lower. Corn steady to 3 cents higher. Sorghum 1-3 cents higher. Soybeans steady to 3 cents lower. Wheat trade getting a little difference of opinion. Higher one day and lower the next.

Estimates of freeze kill damage to Hard Red Winter Wheat varies considerably. Cold weather not over yet, low temperatures tonight. However, most decline at Kansas City Tuesday was on May which is about to go off the Board and start delivery or settlement. Cold wet weather continues to delay Spring wheat planting. Price spread getting wider on wheat as the higher proteins bring more of a premium. Corn planting time is here for the big production areas. Farmers are sitting in the barns watching the rains. New crop corn bids 4-5 cents below December, around 2.60 a bushel. Wild cotton market, but prices at a very high level. New crop soybean bids, 12-15 below November, and 5.80-5.83 per bushel. Corn and cotton look much better than beans. Continued cold wet or warm dry weather could change all of this in either direction in a blink. Traders keeping their good eye glued to the weather maps.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

MAY 1 - 7, 1995

MAY DAY, MAY 1

MAY BASKETS

You've probably heard of hanging May baskets on the door to welcome Spring, but did you know that dew collected on May Day is reputed to wash away freckles? As you gather flowers for your May basket, keep in mind that floral bouquets were once more articulate than the fountain pen. Some signifying flowers included: apple blossoms for temptation; buttercups for childishness and riches; chamomile for energy in adversity; white daisies for innocence; purple lilacs for early love; white lilacs for modesty; mountain ash for prudence; narcissus for self-esteem; yellow tulips for hopeless love; sweet peas for respect; and blue violets for faithfulness.

". . . these stars of earth — these golden flowers."

— H W Longfellow

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Oil of lavender, diluted with greater parts of water and wiped on your tablecloth, will drive flies away.

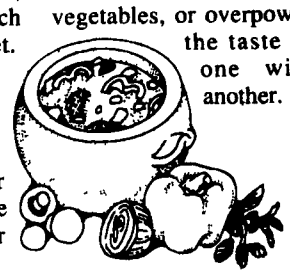
SPRING SOUP

When the new vegetables begin to appear in the marketplace, make a delicate soup broth of veal or chicken, then add a handful of each vegetable in the market. Green peas, young carrots, a small turnip, a few green beans, and some pearl onions can be cooked together just until soft. Before serving, sprinkle over the top a sprig of parsley, a bit of lettuce, and a stalk or two of celery, all chopped fine. The trick is not to overcook the vegetables, or overpower the taste of one with another.



The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

Rain on Jacob's Day (May 1), expect a fertile year.

When the perfume of flowers is unusually strong, expect rain.

If flowers stay open all night, the weather will be wet the next day.

Special Offer: Handy chart full of interesting weather proverbs. Send $3 to Weather Chart, Dept. UF, The Old Farmer's Almanac, Box 520, Dublin, NH 03444.

OPINION

Penn State Funding Request Reasonable

Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences is one of the nation's top agricultural science colleges, according to a study conducted by the newsletter Science Watch. The ranking is based on the number of citations in scientific journals indexed by the Philadelphia-based Institute for Scientific Information.

Obviously, the scientific community draws heavily upon work conducted by researchers at Penn State. But the real "pay-offs" from our research and extention programs come in more practical terms. Newspaper bedding has increased to the point that 25 percent of all dairy cattle in the state are bedded on waste newspapers today.

In addition, pasture management has increased dairy profits by $130 per cow each year. A typical 60-cow herd can boost profits by nearly $8,000 per year by adopting sound pasture management techniques.

Integrated pest management practices (IPM) in alfalfa, horticulture, and fruit trees has decreased the amount of wasted pesticides in our applications and has helped both the farmer's pocketbook and the environment.

Eggs are produced at less cost. Poultry diseases are better managed. Food and water are safer. Nutrient management is better. Child care is improved. Youth have been helped.

All these improvements in areas of importance to agriculture, as well as the urban community are the result of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences' research and extension programs. That's why we believe the practical results from scientific work done at Penn State ranks among the top in the nation too.

And that's why we need to continue to support Penn Sate's research efforts with increased funding, both from the public and the private sectors of our state. To not do so will cause a great void in both the scientific and the practical data available when we need it in the future.

The history of the land-grant mission and the importance of agricultural and related constituencies make it crucial that funding for research and extension be adequately funded. The college is asking for a six percent increase in state funds. This seems like a reasonable request.

Now Is The Time

To Develop Fertilizer Plan

With the high cost of nitrogen, concerns about water quality and small profit margins, it is important to develop a good fertilizer program.

All good fertility programs begin with a soil test to see what the level of soil nutrients are. By applying the nutrients that are needed, a good crop yield will be achieved while not running out of nutrients. In addition, a soil test will prevent the application of nutrients which are not needed, saving money.

If animal manure was applied to the field, a nutrient analysis of the manure would be helpful in planning how much fertilizer should be added. If the soil test shows adequate levels of phosphorous and potassium, delay adding any nitrogen until sidedress time and then use the Penn State Nitrogen Quick Test. If the test shows 21 part per million (ppm) of nitrate nitrogen at that stage of growth, there is sufficient nitrogen to grow the crop to maturity without negative impact on yields.

To Improve Corn Profitability

According to Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, profitability of corn production may be improved by following several recommendations.

First is to apply insecticides only when the number of insects in the field will cause significant yield reduction. To accomplish this, the field must be visited on a regular basis to look for insects.

Scouting of the field should begin shortly after emergence and continue throughout the season, looking for insects which are causing damage. You may also scout for weed problems and select a postemergent herbicide to control problem weeds when they become of economic importance.

Another step to improve profitability is to plant on time. Most years, the best yielding corn is planted early or at least on time. That means to be ready to begin planting anytime past the middle of April when soil conditions are good and the weather forecast for the next five days is for mild conditions.

The final step is selecting top yielding hybrids. Pay attention to yield performance data and your own production records. Use several new varieties each year that performed well on university and company variety trails.

To Control Sheep Parasites

Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, reminds us pasture season is here and with it should come a concern about internal parasite control.

All sheep have internal parasites to one degree or another. There are different types of internal parasites. Roundworms, tapeworms, and coccida are common ones in this area. Internal parasites cause slower weight gains, unthriftiness, and higher feed bills.

While we will never eradicate internal parasites, there are anti-parasitic drugs that may be utilized in your control program. Most shepherds should consider using worming medication at least at the following intervals: one month before lambing, one month after the start of grazing, two months after the start of grazing, at pre-breeding, and at the end of the pasture season.

If your sheep are on one pasture continuously, you may have to deworm them every month, especially if your stocking rate is high. Lambs on pasture with their mothers will also need to be treated.

There are several antiparasite medications available. Some are approved for sheep while some are only approved for cattle and require your veterinarian's approval for use.

WHEN IT RAINS ON OUR PARADE
April 30, 1995

Background Scripture
II Corinthians 1:1-14
Devotional Reading
Galatians 6:1-10

The Arabs have a saying, "All sunshine makes a desert." Of course we know that and we appreciate that there must be rain, but we rather wish that storms would come on someone else's time.

It is human to want all sunshine and to avoid all storms. At the same time, we know that even in the midst of affliction there are victories to be won and growing to be done. We would prefer to win and grow without affliction, but when we cannot avoid it, we need to learn to seize the opportunities it affords us. Ralph Erskine, bedridden and racked with pain, wrote, "I have known more of God since I came to this bed, than through all my life."

When troubles come, we need to remember that with the afflictions comes also God's comfort, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and God of all comfort, who comforts us in all our afflictions . . ." (1:3). God's promise to us is not that He will help us avoid all troubles, but that in the midst of them He will be with us, aiding us, comforting us, "For as we share abundantly in Christ's Sufferings, so through Christ we share abundantly in comfort" (1:5).

ALWAYS PRESENT

Some people will say that, although they have had their share of troubles, they have not found God's comfort in the midst of them. If we can't find God at this time, it is not because He is absent, but because we aren't aware enough of His presence. Avoid troubles as well as you can, but if they come anyway then look for God's comfort. There isn't a trial or tribulation we experience that God is not present, offering us His help and assurance.

Actually, every affliction is an opportunity to learn from God. Paul tells the Corinthians of his own experience: "Why we felt we had received the sentence of death; but that was to make us rely not on ourselves but on God who raises the dead" (1:9). That is probably the biggest lesson we all have to learn: to rely, not on ourselves, but upon God. Often, it seems it is only when we have no place else to turn that we learn what true faith is: tursting in God alone.

SHARE THE COMFORT

But there is another dimension, too. Not only can we find God in the midst of our afflictions, but, having received His comfort, we need to share it with others who are likewise afflicted. Whatever we have learned through hardship, defeat, or suffering can be passed on to others. The comfort God gives us in this situation is meant to be shared in a never-ending cycle of human relationships. If, in my suffering I find God, I must help others do the same. Thus, Paul says that God comforts us in all our afflictions, so that we may be able to comfort those who are in any affliction with the comfort with which we ourselves are comforted by God (8:4). There are times when all of us can identify with Paul's confession: ". . . we were so utterly, unbearably crushed that we despaired of life itself" (1:8).

St. Theresa of Avila knew many afflictions in her life, but in the midst of them she always found God. And across the centuries she shares what she found:

Let nothing disturb thee, Let nothing afright thee. All things are passing. God never changes. Patience gains all things. Who has God wants nothing. God alone suffices.

Wholesale Fruit Growers, Shippers Sought For Directory

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — To promote Pennsylvania's tree fruit industry, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius is seeking the names of wholesale fruit growers, packers and shippers to be included in a new directory.

In the past, retail fruit growers have been given the opportunity to be listed in the "Consumer's Guide to Pennsylvania Farm Markets." However, in keeping with Gov. Tom Ridge's promise to promote Pennsylvania's leading industry, Brosius said he believed it appropriate to create a new directory for wholesale fruit growers, packers, and shippers.

"Buyers could use this booklet as a guide to some of the best tree fruit in the nation," Brosius said.

The directory will list wholesale fruit growers, packers, and shippers of apples, peaches, nectarines, pears, tart and sweet cherries, plums, and other tree fruit.

Those involved in the wholesale tree fruit industry who are interested in being listed in the directory should request an application from the Agriculture Department.

To obtain an application, contact Mike Varner, Bureau of Market Development, Pennsylvania Agriculture Department, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, (717) 787-6901.

Applications must be received by May 31, to be included in the directory.

If You Had Blacknightshade In Your Soybean Fields In 1994 You Weren't Using This Tank Mix

A Full Season Of Grass Control In Every Micro-Capsule.

If you could look inside a micro-capsule of Partner® herbicide, you'd see something remarkable. A full season's worth of grass control plus the added bonus of superior crop safety.

TIMED-RELEASE, SEASON-LONG GRASS CONTROL IN CORN AND BEANS.

Because of its unique encapsulated formula, Partner "meters out" grass control throughout the growing season. The kind of effective preemergent control you need to stop yield-robbing grasses like foxtails, fall panicum and barnyardgrass.

Plus, the timed-release action of Partner provides maximum crop safety. Especially when young plants are most susceptible to herbicide stress.

CONVENIENT DRY FORMULATION MIXES QUICKLY AND EASILY.

Unlike other grass herbicides, Partner comes in an easy-to-handle dry formulation. And while it mixes quickly and completely in your tank, there are no meters to mess with, no pumps to replace and no containers to rinse.

This year, ask your dealer for timed-release Partner herbicide from Monsanto.

126 Cow Free Stall Barn - Quarryville, PA

Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!
At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering, Acme products feature such things as.

There's something extra in a starter fertilizer program.

Starter fertilizers unlock benefits for corn farmers. They stimulate seedling growth, hasten crop maturity, improve crop tolerance to some insects, increase crop competition with weeds and frequently increase yields, particularly in production fields featuring conservation tillage and irrigation. Starter fertilizers make crop production more environmentally sound because they improve fertilizer uptake efficiency.

The agronomic benefits of starter fertilizers increase crop productivity and profits from corn production.

Lancaster Extension Hires Horticultural Agent

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — There's truly a "doctor" in the house for vegetable and fruit growers in Lancaster County, now that a horticultural agent has been hired.

Dr. Timothy Elkner, who holds a doctorate in horticulture from Virginia Tech, has succeeded H. Bruce Hellerick, former agent, as the new Lancaster County horticultural agent, it was announced this week.

Elkner, who begins with the Penn State Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Service on June 5, obtained his degrees in plant science, including a bachelor's from Cook College at Rutger's, a master's from Clemson, and a doctorate from Virginia Tech. Studies include the photosynthesis of peaches while completing the master's degree work and the photosynthesis of apples was the focus of his doctoral dissertation.

For three years, Elkner served as a plant physiologist with Texas Tech University in Lubbock, working on studies of grape cold hardiness for the wine industry in the state.

A native of Mays Landing, New Jersey, Elkner told Lancaster Farming that he was looking forward to working with Lancaster County farmers on the emerging fruit industry and to help develop alternative crops to tobacco.

Elkner will help the fruit and vegetable industry to "develop and grow," said John Schwartz, Lancaster County Extension director.

"Elkner will work with the fruit and vegetable producers in various capacities, including direct marketing," said Schwartz.

Elkner said that he will be focusing on alternative methods to "help growers get a similar economic return" to tobacco crops by growing vegetable crops in the county. "I will also try to help growers explore alternative direct marketing approaches for their products."

The county vegetable industry produces about $8.4 million worth of commodities per year. Products from the fruit industry total $2.1 million for the county, according to 1993 figures.

Schwartz said that Elkner's experience with plant science has shown that the doctor is a "strong candidate" to replace Hellerick, who left Extension for a career in the landscape industry.

Dr. Timothy Elkner, who holds a doctorate in horticulture from Virginia Tech, has succeeded H. Bruce Hellerick, former agent, as the new Lancaster County horticultural agent, it was announced this week.

Pond Management Seminar Set

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.)—There are literally thousands of farm ponds and lakes across Pennsylvania. Their purposes include aesthetics, fishing, boating, human and livestock water supply, wildlife and fishery enhancement, recreation, and fire protection. A two-part workshop has been planned for pond and lake owners to give them ideas on enhancing their enjoyment and appreciation of their unique resource.

The program will begin on Tuesday, May 9, at 7 p.m. at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, Route 225, Dauphin. Discussion will include pond ecology and management.

On Thursday, May 25, at 6 p.m., a field trip will take participants to a pond to observe management practices and discuss pest control strategies and fish management.

Speakers include Jane Smith-Decker, superintendent and watershed manager for Harrisburg City's Dehart Dam; Joseph Gallagher, pond and lake consultant who is also a fisheries biologist; and Tom McCarty, agricultural engineer in the Cumberland County Extension Office.

Interested individuals can register by calling (717) 921-8803 for information. There is a $10 registration fee if registered before Friday, May 5. Registration after that is $15.

WARNING!

An odorless, colorless, invisible--and costly-- forage thief!

You can't see it--and you can't stop it. Storage losses in forage can steal your valuable crop--how much is lost depends upon how you store your feed:

- Tower Silos have Up to 8% loss*
- Bunkers have Up to 45% loss

If the average difference in feed lost between tower silos and bunkers is 30%, then storage of 1000 tons will mean 300 tons MORE lost in a bunker. If silage is valued at $30 per ton, the additional losses from bunker storage would be $9000 a year.

For information on losses for all types of crop storage methods, contact the Crop Storage Institute for your free copy of " Methods of Crop Storage" and "Know the Facts."

Precision Ag Field Day June 19

NORCROSS, Ga.—The Potash & Phosphate Institute (PPI), Foundation for Agronomic Research (FAR), The Fertilizer Institute (TFI) and the USDA/ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center are coordinating plans for a Precision Agriculture Field Day on June 19. The field day will be held at the USDA/ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center which is located on U.S. Route 1 just outside the Beltway in Beltsville, Md.

Visitors will see how space-age technology is providing important tools for nutrient management and other aspects of modern crop production. Site-specific or precision management in crop production could enable U.S. agriculture to remain a competitive player in world markets and at the same time to safeguard our environment. Those attending will also learn how farmers can begin to set the stage for using this available technology by developing record systems and management plans for their fields.

Exhibits will open at 9 a.m. displaying various hardware, software, and related technology developments. Representatives will be on hand to answer questions.

The joint House and Senate Agriculture Hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the 500-seat Beltsville Center Auditorium. Leading experts will testify on the technology available, how it is being used, and expected future advancements. Farmers from various sections of the U.S., who use precision agriculture techniques, will testify and discuss their experiences.

Lunch will be sponsored by the Maryland Grain Producers Association and the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board. Exhibits will remain open during the lunch hour. In the afternoon, bus tours will include live demonstrations of on-the-go yield monitors, variable rate input applications and other components of the system.

Pre-registration is required. The deadline for receiving pre-registration forms is Friday, May 26. For information, contact Bill Griffith, 865 Seneca Road, Great Falls, VA 22066.

Pa.DHIA Welcomes New Technicians

DAVID BIGELOW

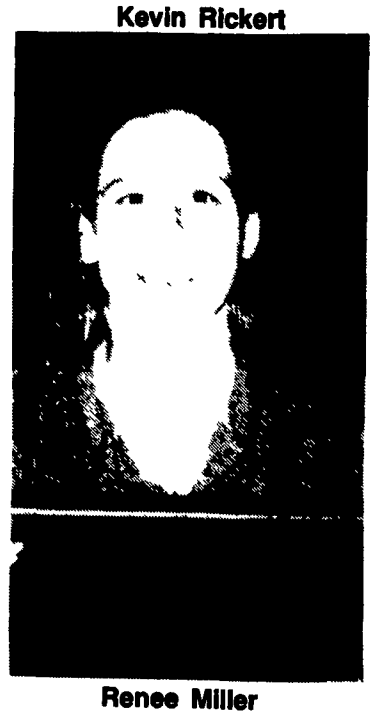
Kevin Rickert



Renee Miller

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pa.DHIA welcomes two new employees, Renee Miller and Kevin Rickert.

Renee Miller serves Westmoreland County and part of Fayette County.

Rickert's service area inlcudes all of Beaver and parts of Lawrence and Washington counties, currently with 26 herds.

The agriculture industry is no stranger to Miller. Growing up in the Westmoreland County area, Renee had the opportunity to join several 4-H clubs. The dairy, horse and market lamb 4-H clubs gave her the opportunity to express herself in the things that she enjoyed most our of life.

One of the most noted accomplishments in Renee's life is being on the 1989 Dairy Bowl state championship team. That team went on to be ranked third in the nation.

She graduated from Ligonier Valley Senior High School in 1990. After graduation from high school, Renee went onto Penn State University's Fayette Campus where she majored in dairy animal science.

Her hobbies include horseback riding, hunting, fishing, riding motorcycles and working with animals.

Some things that Renee likes most about working for Pa.DHIA are being able to meet so many nice people as she completes her circuit each month. Being able to work closely with an industry that is so close to her heart is certainly a great opportunity.

Kevin Rickert completed his Pa.DHIA technician studies at the field training seminar in February.

Rickert graduated from Lawrence County Vocational-Technical School in 1983. Some of his work experience includes working in construction, working in a sawmill and working part time on a dairy farm.

His hobbies are gardening, playing steel guitar and raising young heifers. We know the ambition and enthusiasm that Kevin has to offer will sure be an asset.

We invite the dairy industry to welcome both these people as part of the team.

Please feel free to contact Pa.DHIA at (800) 344-8378, if we can be of any assistance in your dairy operation.

Pa.DHIA Announces Regional Seminars

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (Pa.DHIA) has announced a series of regional seminars set to run May 15 through May 19 at various locations throughout the state.

The deadline for reserving a place at a seminar is May 5. To register, those invited to attend are asked to indicate which seminar they would like to attend and to fax a response to Pa.DHIA at (814) 865-3924.

According to Pa.DHIA, the seminars are primarily designed for dairy veterinarians, nutritionists and extension agents.

A letter from Dave Slusser, Pa.DHIA manager, and James Boyer, processing center manager, sent out this week announcing the seminars, states that, "Difficult economic circumstances and sharp competition at a time of diminishing extension resources have driven the increasing demand for closer cooperation between DHIA and veterinarian practitioner, nutritionists, and other agribusiness consultants.

"Because your vision for the future is important to us, Pennsylvania DHIA will be sponsoring a number of regional meetings ... ."

According to the letter, dated Wednesday, a number of topics may be discussed during the seminars. Six questions are asked in the letter concerning the topics.

"Are you or your clients interested in milk urea nitrogen testing? How frequently? What percentage of a herd should be tested?

"Would you be interested in participating in a Northeast Resources Consortium sponsored by DHIA, that would facilitate marketing advertising and communication between dairy industry supporters and clients via the internet or other electronic means?

"As Pa.DHIA's ARIS program enters its second decade, how should it be changed to meet your needs?

"As Pa.DHIA gains maturity in the on-farm computing business, how can those systems and programs be designed to support practitioners and agribusiness consultants?

"As the land grant universities' role in education and support diminishes, what can DHIA do to enhance its function as an educator? Should DHIA hold regular, regional workshops for consultants? On what topics? Traditional records programs? Hands-on computer training?

"What steps can DHIA take to insure that its support community remains 'plugged in,' and apprised of new developments and consulted throughout the design process?"

All seminars are set to run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The dates and locations of the seminars are May 15, Howard Johnson's, in Mercer; May 16, at the Arena Restaurant in Bedford; May 17, at Crosskeys Restaurant, in New Oxford; May 18, at the Holiday Inn, in Morgantown; and May 19 at the Pink Apple Restaurant, in Tunkhannock.

GRASS TETANY

Lawrence Muller
Professor Of Dairy Science
Penn State University

As pasture season starts, we need to be concerned about grass or magnesium (Mg) tetany. Grass tetany is a general term commonly used to describe a condition of tetany that occurs when cattle or sheep are on pasture. It is caused by low amounts of total or available magnesium in the diet. It is sometimes called hypomagnesemic tetany, lactation tetany, or grass staggers.

Grass tetany, as the name indicates, is most common when cows are turned out onto lush spring pasture. The first 4 to 6 weeks of the grazing season are of most concern to producers. The condition occurs more often on grass pastures than on legume pastures. Older cows are more susceptible than younger cows. Early lactation cows with higher Mg requirements are most susceptible.

In mild cases of grass tetany, milk yield is decreased and animals are nervous. These signs may indicate the need for preventative measures such as injection of Mg solutions. In more severe cases, affected cows have muscular incoordination, aggressive and irritable behavior, and excess salivation. Finally, general tetany, convulsions, and death can occur if not treated.

Causes

The exact causes of grass tetany are not known, and the occurrence within and between herds is variable and not predictable. Grass tetany is most common during cool, cloudy, and rainy weather and often occurs when cool weather is followed by warm weather. Changeable weather conditions seem to trigger grass tetany. It occurs most often when cows graze cool season grasses or small grain pastures.

Some dairy producers have had limited or no problems with grass tetany. Others have problems that vary between years. Five years ago we had one year with major tetany problems. Other years the occurrence of tetany has been minimal. Affected cows have low blood magnesium levels caused either by a diet cow in Mg or one from which the MG is not absorbed into the bloodstream. A normal blood Mg level is 2 to 2.5 mg per 100 ml of blood serum. Blood levels of Mg may drop to 1 mg per 100 ml blood or less with grass tetany.

Plant and animal factors related to the amount and utilization of Mg are associated with grass tetany problems. Factors thought to be related to causing grass tetany are:

- Low content of Mg in soil and in pasture. The NRC recommendation for lactating dairy cattle is that Mg be fed at 0.20 to 0.25 percent of the total ration dry matter (DM). In the spring, a Mg level of .30 percent or greater of the total ration DM (forage and grain) is recommended. The Mg content of grasses typically ranges from 0.17 percent to 0.23 percent, or less than the needs of the high producing cow. Legumes are usually higher in Mg than are grasses and range from 0.25 to 0.30 percent Mg. Magnesium levels are lowest in the spring and increase during the growing season.
- High rates of N and K fertilization and high amounts in pastures interfere with Mg utilization. Heavy N applications to pasture increase the incidence of grass tetany. High K interferes with Mg uptake by grasses. Many early spring pastures contain 25 percent protein (4 percent N) and in excess of 3 percent K. The excess K not only is a factor in causing grass tetany but can lead to imbalance in cations:anions in dry cows which can contribute to increased milk fever.
- Grass tetany is more likely to occur when Ca is low and when K is high. When the ideal ratio of Ca, K, and Mg is unbalanced, proper nerve impulse transmission fails, and tetany occurs. The grain ration or supplemental feeding needs to be programmed to contain adequate Ca.

Controlling Grass Tetany

Early lactation dairy cows require about 0.13 pound or about 40 grams of Mg per day. A cow consuming 28 pounds of pasture dry matter per day will consume about 25 grams of Mg. Most grain rations without supplemental Mg contain about .2 percent Mg. Therefore, grazing dairy cows need an additional 10 to 15 grams of Mg per day from supplemental minerals.

Magnesium needs to be added to the grain ration to increase the Mg content of the total ration (pasture plus grain) to at least .30 percent Mg. Often, .35 percent Mg is recommended. Magnesium oxide is the most common source of supplemental Mg. This means the grain ration may need to contain about 0.5 percent Mg. Cows often will not consume all the allotted grain with lush spring pastures, thus other supplemental methods may be needed. Oral bolusing individual cows with 1 to 2 ounces of magnesium oxide per day is effective. Free-choice minerals with elevated Mg content can be considered in addition to the Mg being force-fed in the grain rations. Not only can Mg help prevent grass tetany, but may help prevent a depressed milkfat test that often occurs on spring pasture. Providing 5 to 8 pounds per day of legume hay high in Mg can be helpful in increasing Mg intake.

For cattle with grass tetany, consult the local veterinarian for treatment. Dextrose solution with Ca and Mg is a common treatment. A saturation solution of magnesium sulfate injected under the skin places a high level of Mg in the blood in a short trial.

"Tiz," and son Sam, Williams farms 200 acres of owned cropland and 100 acres of rented property to support a 280-cow Jersey herd. The family has been a Dauphin County Conservation District cooperator since 1953.

In all, Williams tills about 250 acres, including 150 acres of corn, 100 acres of alfalfa, and 80 acres of pasture land (split between the use of pastured Barcel Fescue and orchard grass). The cows are placed on pasture through the use of rotational grazing.

Williams employs many labor-conserving practices on the dairy farm. He uses a three-wheel vehicle to travel to work areas. With the use of the three-wheeler, he can open and lock pasture gates "from the seat," he said.

Williams uses simple containers fashioned from 250-gallon drums equipped with inexpensive floats for the watering system. The dairy farmer has purchased a system that uses 2½ -gallon plastic containers equipped with nipples to feed six calves at one time.

For feeding grain to the older stock, he uses 5-gallon containers fastened with handles so that, at one time, he can pour more grain a lot easier.

"You don't need two hands on the bucket to feed the material," he said. "You only need one hand."

In addition, the Virginia-style heifer facility and the main feedlot are equipped with slatted floors so the manure flows readily to the pit. The only work involved is pumping the slurry to a tank for field application.

Also, the use of newspaper bedding on the farm provides an inexpensive and ready flow of materials to the stalls. When he began using newspaper as bedding, Williams would put a sign out in front of his farm. Through passers-by and eventual word-of-mouth, area residents dropped off bags. Whenever he needs to increase his supply, the sign goes back up.

The use of newspaper bedding, according to Williams, goes hand in hand with conservation practices because it absorbs moisture readily and contributes carbon to the manure system — conserving nitrogen in the fields.

In light of possible droughts, Williams insists on the importance of contour farming and manure injection.

"If you inject your manure, you've got that organic matter down in the soil in a nice groove that's going to retain moisture. And if you inject it on the contour, then any rain you get will be absorbed by this organic matter."

Williams said he converted to the pasture system and employed other labor-saving practices on the farm because he's "lazy.

"I say that everybody that's efficient is lazy," he said. "The only reason they're efficient is because they're lazy. And the only difference between a lazy person and an efficient person is the lazy person doesn't want to work. The efficient person wants to get the work done and doesn't want to work. And there are people in the middle, between lazy and efficient, that don't mind if they work and work and work."

Williams installed simple bunkers for his silage system, using plywood and telephone poles. He recently purchased two used grain bins so he can get more of the mineral concentrate he feeds in his TMR in bulk "so I don't have to lift bags," he said.

This "conservation philosophy" works on all aspects of his farm and contributes to profitability.

Williams said, "Conservation is only so that you don't need something later. If rain falls on this farm, and it goes away and I get a drought, then it's my fault. If rain falls on this farm and it stops here and I have a drought, then it's not my fault. It's the fault of the drought."

When he began using newspaper as bedding, Williams would put a sign out in front of his farm. Through passers-by and eventual word-of-mouth, residents of the area dropped off bags of paper. Whenever he needs to increase his supply, the sign goes back up.

'We Are Citizens Of One World'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Dairyman Tom Williams folds his business card so that the top one-third is immediately prominent. It reads: "We Are Citizens Of One World."

Williams said, "Everybody in the world eats and sleeps, so we're all the same."

In his kitchen, a map of the world is attached to the wall above the kitchen table. On the map, the United States appears merely as a nonchalant part of the world, much like the other countries, not centrally located, just a part of one big planet.

Tiz Williams holds onto a Brazilian flag, from the collection of flags provided by the guest families through many exchange programs.

On a kitchen cupboard are attached the flags to about 15 countries. Tom's wife, Tiz, steps onto a stool and points to one that was handed to her by a mother and daughter from Brazil.

Below the cupboard, on a corkboard, are more than a hundred pictures of family guests of the Williams during more than 33 years of serving as host family for the Friendship Force Exchange and many other hosting programs.

And outside the house, next to the porch, an American flag flies. When guests from other countries come to visit the Dauphin County Conservation Farmers of the Year, "we try to get the flag for their country and fly it," said Tom Williams.

Tom and Theresa "Tiz" Williams have served as a host under the programs since 1962. In that time, they have hosted a teenager from Germany for a year and a half, a Japanese family at Christmastime, a mother and daughter from Kenya (this past Christmas), and people from India, Australia, Poland, Mexico, Africa, and other parts of the world.

Tiz, who services as the charge nurse on critical care at Dauphin Manor, helps the visitors plant a tree. The tree is cared for. A picture is sent to the guest families as a way of keeping in touch with them after they return. It serves as a memento and a symbol of goodwill.

Tiz said that they stay in touch regularly with the families they hosted through the years. Tom said he wants to remain a host family for quite some time.

Tiz pointed to a Star Magnolia tree planted recently by a family from Kenya.

"To welcome people from other countries — that is our recreation," said Tom.

Breeding, Feeding Pays Off

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

VINCENTOWN, N.J. — There are many things which can create excitement in farming, but nothing quite like seeing unexpectedly outstanding performance by a farm-raised animal.

Recently, a New Jersey dairy farmer and his herdsman have been getting excited about some high milk production coming from one of their farm's registered Holsteins.

Clint Shontz, of Vincentown, N.J., lives and works on a 120-acre dairy farm owned by his father, C. Wayne Shontz. Clint owns 57 milking cows out of the 220-head milking herd he manages and milks with the help of hired man Chris Kleingunther.

What has been causing excitement at the farm is the promisingly high production by one of Clint's registered Hoslteins — a red and white genetic carrier which haven't been renowned for high production compared to the rest of the breed.

According to Shontz, his just-turned 6-year-old Shayne Shamrock, an 86-point Cleitus daughter, tested for 179 pounds milk production on the 30th day after freshening. At 65 days, she made 176 pounds of milk.

"I think she's milking more now," said Clint, a 1993 dairy science graduate from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Clint said she made more than 100,000 pounds of milk in two, extended lactations. As a 2-year-old, she made 29,000 pounds milk, and 35,000 pounds as a 3-year-old.

According to Clint, while injectable, recombinant bovine somatotropin (rBST) is used on some animals in the 220-head milking string, he hasn't used it on Shamrock.

He said that, first of all, "She's just fresh and she's milking a lot." He also said that she slipped too much body score naturally to push her production any more than it is.

Shontz said that, unfortunately, Shamrock suffered a recent brief bout of mastitis in a quarter and her production dropped slightly. Shontz said he treated her for mastitis and has been feeding most of the calves with milk from Shamrock.

While the mastitis is apparently under control, Shamrock is a big cow, Shontz said, and he worries sometimes about her moving around in the freestalls. He estimated her weight at around 1,800 pounds, though he said he hasn't measured her.

She has two daughters, one milking, Beattyview Mark Ryan, that he said has had a couple of tests of more than 95 pounds per day as a 2-year-old.

That fact that her daughter is doing well, and she is testing at 3.5 percent protein, he said her index ought to improve. He said he intends to have her rescored and some photographs taken.

"I really excited ... the next highest testing cow (to Shamrock) is 120 (pounds), and the herd average was 65 pounds that day (her second test of the current lactation), so she is actually three times the average of herd," he said.

Shamrock's dam was an Enhancer daughter that Shontz said was a 100,000 pound cow, "though she never made any super records, but a lot of milk."

The grandam was a red carrier, a Lilly Pond Distinctive Red daughter. Clint said he bought Shamrock's dam in 1986 for about $1,500 during the New Jersey State Calf sale.

Shontz does all sire selections and does all the artificial insemination work on the farm. He also participates in an A.I. company's young sire program.

He said he had flushed Shamrock to a red bull, but did not get any red calves.

The farm's herd has about a 20,000 pound rolling herd average, and though it consists mostly of Holsteins, it is colorful, with some Brown Swiss and Jerseys. Also, about 75 percent of the Holsteins carry the red genetic factor, and of those, about a third exhibit the coloration.

Also, about 60 percent of the herd is registered, Shontz said.

Clint said he feeds a totally mixed ration made mostly with grains and forages raised on the farm and the additional rented land. They raise and store high moisture corn, corn silage, alfalfa, and oatlage taken off in the spring as a winter cover crop on corn. The fields are planted to alfalfa and corn basically on a three-year rotation, and Clint does a lot of field work in addition to managing the herd.

The TMR also uses purchased concentrates and commodities, such as soybean meal, or protein meal.

Clint does the ration formulations, using a computer program he got at college, plus a record system he described as "homespun."

The herd is on a regular monthly pregnancy checks by a veterinarian and basically has the herd on a regular herd health program, with the vet doing general herd health checks.

Shontz said that while he doesn't do formal body scores, he does mental body scores, especially on those at freshening, and at other points in a dairy cow's life's subcycles.

Shontz milks out of a double-six herringbone parlor and, a member of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, ships about 24,000 pounds of milk every two days.

The herd is on test and he said he uses the records.

Shamrock has the potential to become a very important contributor to the future generations of animals at the Shontz farm.

While an earlier flush to a red bull unfortunately resulted in no heifer calves, Clint said he is planning on doing some flush work on her, possibly to "Elton, maybe Lindy," he said, "and then whichever newer sires are out there now that look good."

While in college, Clint was a member of the dairy club, and a member of the collegiate dairy judging team, that in 1991 won the Jersey competition in Madison, and ranked 10th overall.

Clint said he had showed Shamrock as a heifer, "But I don't bother dragging her around now. She's too busy making milk."

Henry was the reserve champion showman and intermediate division champion fitter and showman. Winning champion fitter and honorable mention showman honors, Christine was the amateur division champion fitter and showman.

Progressive Co-op Holds Annual Meeting

TROY (Bradford Co.)—Progressive Dairymen's Cooperative Inc. recently held its eighth annual meeting at the Edgewood Family Restaurant in Troy.

Approximately 50 members and their families from Pennsylvania and New York attended the meeting.

Progressive President, J.W. Welch of Mansfield, introdcued the guests, including Mimma Kisor of Seneca Falls, N.Y. Mrs. Kisor is an accountant with United Ag Services.

Welch gave a short history of the co-op and reported on its activities during the past year. He also discussed the quality of the market and the co-op's ability to pay its members above average premiums for their marketing area.

In addition, Progressive has paid its producer members a patronage dividend every year since they founded. This year, patronage dividend checks were distributed at the close of the meeting.

After completing his remarks, Mr. Welch introduced James Patsos, who is president of United Ag Services.

Patsos introduced the top quality producers of Progressive for the past year. Each year United provides awards for the top quality producers in its member cooperatives annual meetings.

First place went to Robert Duckworth of Covington, with an average bacteria count of 1,833 and SMCC of 120,500, an outstanding record. He received a plaque and a check.

The following producers received a certificate of accomplishment and a check for their outstanding records: Richard Carnright Jr., Mainesburg, Paul Allen, Granville Summit, Jeffrey Ammerman, Athens, Dennis and Andrea Eckert, New Albany, and John and Bonnie Kenrick, Mainesburg. All are from Pennsylvania.

Patsos then discussed market conditions, the effect of various government action on the milk market such at GATT and NAFTA. He also discussed the upcoming 1995 Farm Bill.

He said there are problems dairy famers would face if the Federal Milk Market Orders and/or classified pricing were discontinued. The elimination of classified pricing based on the use of the milk would lower the overall milk price dairy farmers receive.

In other business, Douglas Stewart of Rome, Pa., was elected director on the board. Bruce Berguson and Glenn Layser of Mansfield were re-elected to the board. Re-elected for a one-year term as officers were J.W. Welch, president, Don Hamilton, vice president, and Caleb Williams, secretary/treasurer.

Progressive has a marketing opportunity for a few qualified producers. Anyone interested should contact J.W. Welch at (717) 549-7281 or any of the Directors or call United Ag Services at (315) 568-2750.

United Ag Services, located in Seneca Falls, N.Y., provides marketing, quality control, accounting, and payroll services for small to medium sized agricultural organizations and individual farmers.

Spring Brings Blossoms At Derick's Orchards Since 1911

BETH MILLER

NEWVILLE (Cumberland Co.) — The cherry blossoms are blooming again at Derick's Orchards, continuing a tradition that dates to the early years of this century. The orchards are located in the north mountains behind Newville.

Those blooms were a welcome sight for Tom Derick, whose grandfather bought the property in 1911, when it consisted of just a few trees.

"The mild winter didn't seem to hurt the cherries or peaches or apples," Derick said.

Things were a lot worse last year following the terribly cold and snowy winter, he said.

"Last year we had three peaches, but this year it looks like we will have plenty of peaches," Derick said.

The Derick property has grown considerably from the little orchard Tom's grandfather bought. Today, Derick has nine acres of peaches, 1 acre of sweet cherry trees and 100 acres of apple trees, mostly York apples.

Derick said that, in contrast with last year, the cherries in his orchard blossomed about one week earlier than normal. That means that the cherries the trees produce should be ready for picking in mid June to early July, he said.

The weather still can pose some risks for the crop, however.

"After May 10 we are over the hump. That is the last day we have to worry about frost," Derick said. "If we had frost or really cold temperatures it would really hurt the cherry and peach crops."

A lot of work went into getting the trees ready for a new producing season, said Derick, whose son, Robert, manages another orchard for the family's next-door neighbor.

"During the winter we prune religiously and we have to protect the trees from mice," he said. "And the white-tail deer have become a very big problem in the last several years.

"We have eight-foot fences that do a pretty good job, and we are also using the Penn State fence, which is a five-foot, five-wire electrified fence," he said.

Derick said most of the cherries his trees produce are sold right at the orchard. The cherries and peaches are picked by local help, he said.

About 15 to 20 migrant workers come in every year to pick the apple crop. Derick said that crop then goes to Lucky Leaf processing plants.

The useful life spans of the different fruit trees vary considerably, he said.

Many of the apple trees can live for 35 years or longer, Derick said, while peach trees generally live from 12 to 15 years.

Cherry trees can get to be the oldest of the bunch, Derick said. For an example, he pointed to a cherry tree in his yard. That tree is approximately 60 years old, Derick said.

Pa. State Grange Holds Legislative Banquet

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Almost 400 members of the Pennsylvania State Grange met with state representatives and senators Monday evening during the organization's annual event, held at the Sheraton Inn East-Harrisburg.

The Pennsylvania State Grange is an organization whose 33,000 members and their ideals represent a significant segment of the state's agricultural and rural community.

The annual event is held to bring members together with legislators who are normally in Harrisburg in April working on legislation and budget items.

Monday's Grange event began at 1 p.m. with a series of workshops offered to members before a 5 p.m. informal pre-banquet meeting with legislators and state government agency representatives.

During the banquet, Grange Master Gordon Hiller welcomed the members and guests. In his remarks, Hiller said that in a recent statewide spate of meetings with members of local affiliates, he heard many comment on the diminishing number of agricultural producers in the state — that it currently is closer to 1 percent of the population.

"What we need to say," Hiller said, "is that the 1 percent is providing 16- to 17-percent of the of jobs for those who have jobs, and that 100 percent of the state depends on that 1 percent to provide food."

Hiller then introduced Charles Brosius, state secretary of agriculture, who read a proclamation by state Gov. Tom Ridge, extolling the virtues of the Grange as an organization, and declaring this week Grange Week. The week is also National Grange Week.

Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director for the Pa. State Grange, said the annual event is necessary to bring government closer to the community, and briefed attendees on pieces of legislation of concern to the Grange, and the Grange's grass-roots derived viewpoints on desirable governmental policies.

Specifically, the Grange has promoted local tax reform (Senate Bill 2); legislation to widen options for farm truck plates (House Bill 511); proposals to change charges on storage tanks from capacity to use (HB 825, HB 635); a package of industrial site revitalization proposals (SB 1, SB 11, SB 12); private property rights; dedicated funding for the department of agriculture, and agricultural research at Penn State University and the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center; a proposal to allow Pennsylvania farmer markets along the Pennsylvania Turnpike at suitable locations (HB 844); a proposal to make media liable for recklessly publishing unfounded, unsupported food scare reports (HB 949); a proposal to create uniform standards for determining the tax-exempt status for organizations (SB 355); a proposal to support the state's animal indemnification program (HB 600); and a proposal to provide voluntary approved agriculture education in schools (HB 20, HB 251).

From the left, State Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius presents a proclamation of state Grange Week to Gordon Hiller, master of the Pa. State Grange.

The Grange is strongly opposed the a proposed school voucher system, Shambaugh said, adding that the Grange has had policies against vouchers. Instead, the organization calls for using any and all public funding to support the funding of public schools.

In other business, the Pa. State Grange recognized Mary Jo Wojton, past director of the organization's Deaf Activities Department, and Hedy Chaffee, past state lecturer.

Wojton was recognized with an appreciation award from Bill Steel, Grange vice president, for being one the top five nationally recognized deaf activities directors. She was recognized nationally for the programs, projects and community service efforts to raise awareness of the deaf and hard of hearing.

Chaffee was unable to accept her award in person, but was honored for receiving an Award of Merit from the National Grange for her work in planning statewide programs, projects, contests and community service initiatives.

For more information on the Grange, or any of its member-service programs, call (800) 292-4060.

Research Study: Mobile Feeder Helps Cows On Pasture

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — You don't have to wait until the cows come home to feed them, according to a Penn State researcher, you can put the feeder out in the field where they graze.

"The feeder device we have designed allows farmers to feed cows grain or TMR -- total mixed ration -- right in the field as the cows graze," says Dr. Dennis R. Buckmaster, assistant professor of agricultural engineering.

Cows need a mixture of forage -- alfalfa, grasses and hay with high-energy protein and grains to produce high levels of milk.

"If a cow gets all its food by grazing, it is as if a human ate only bread," says Buckmaster.

Normally, cows are allowed to graze and then are fed grains or TMR when they come into the barn for milking two or three times a day. Alternatively, especially in winter, cows may be fed grains and TMR and stored silage.

"There are three problems with waiting until milking time to feed grains," says Buckmaster. "It slows down milking, the cows are not grazing while they are waiting to be fed, and it disrupts the environment in the cow's rumen."

Cows' rumens achieve a level of acidity and stability eating grasses or alfalfa all day. When large amounts of grains are introduced, digestion becomes less efficient as the rumen restabilizes for the new food. When the cows go back out to graze, the process begins again.

In the rumen, forage protein is broken down into ammonia which is then converted to protein by bacteria that live in the rumen. These bacteria need high levels of carbohydrate to do their job efficiently. The grains provide these carbohydrates.

"A continual mix of forage and grains would be the best approach, so we developed a feeder that would provide grain, around the clock, while the cows foraged on pasture," says Buckmaster.

Cows seem to have a sense that they need both forage and grains and when both are available, they will eat freely of both. The mobile concentrate feeder developed by Mark O. Gardner, former graduate student in agricultural and biological engineering and now with New Holland Inc., and Buckmaster can provide measured amounts of grain for specific cows, in the field while they graze.

Tagging cows to track milk production is routine. Eventually the researchers plan to incorporate the grain rationing system with the milk tag, but for this trial they used a separate tag that conveyed to the feeder how much grain each cow was to get in 24 hours in six-hour increments. The computer also tracked how much grain the cow had already received.

The mobile feeder can be placed out in the field, and moved from field to field as the herd is moved. In winter, the feeder can be placed in the barn with the herd. The cows could eat from the same feeder year around.

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.)—A Centreville, Md., couple captured Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's 1995 Outstanding Young Cooperator title at the 25th Penmarva Young Cooperator Contest held in College Park, Md.

Jeffrey F. and Cindy H. Moore topped the field of 10 contestants, all of whom participated in individual interviews with the judges and presented a five-minute impromptu speech on dairy-related topics.

The Moores farm in partnership with Jeff's parents and are responsible for day-to-day management decisions. The farm operation includes 126 Holstein cows and 525 acres. Jeff oversees herd management, feeding and crops. Cindy is responsible for the young replacement herd and the bookkeeping.

Named as runners-up in the contest were: Allen P. Kretzing of Loysville, second place; Kenneth E. Kehr of Littlestown, third place; Steve R. and Melissa J. Snyder of Pitman, fourth place; and J. Robert and Beth E. Ranck of Paradise, fifth place.

As the top five winners, these young farmers will be named to Atlantic's Young Cooperator Consultant Committee for a three-year term. They will join the 1993 and 1994 winners in developing and planning future Young Cooperator activities.

Additionally, the Moores and Kretzing will attend the National Milk Producers Federation annual meeting Nov. 27-30 in Nashville, Tenn. Kehr, the Snyders and the Rancks will attend the National Institute on Cooperative Education July 31-Aug. 3 in Minneapolis, Minn.

Judges for the contest were Donna Duncan of Carlisle, Pa., representing the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative's Young Cooperative Leaders Program; B. David Patrick of Woodbine, Md., a dairy farmer and director of Mid-American Dairymen Inc.; and Richard "Dick" Poorbaugh of State College, program manager of the Cooperative Business Education and Research Program at Penn State University.

Atlantic's Young Cooperator program is designed to educate young farmer members about cooperatives and the dairy industry. The yearlong program, which includes attendance at board of director meetings, the annual delegate meeting and educational seminars, develops leadership among cooperative members, ages 21 through 40.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents nearly 4,000 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Dropoff Locations For Clean And Green Applications Set

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — To help Lancaster County farmers facilitate sign-up under Clean and Green (Act 319) in this year of court-ordered reassessment, one of several dropoff meetings is scheduled at the farm of Eugene Martin on Tuesday, May 9 from 12:30 p.m.-9 p.m.

Martin, who maintains 90 acres next to the Summit Valley School at 224 Eastern School Road, is working with the Earl Township Farmland Preservation Trust to set up a series of meetings, including one at the Martin Farm and two other locations, for sign-up.

The plan is to allow farmers to fill out the Clean and Green registration forms and have them notarized at the site. If requested, the forms can then be hand-delivered to the county courthouse.

"What we're doing here is to make it more convenient for the farmers," said Martin during a recent interview at his farm. Martin, who finishes 70 head of beef cattle per year, has decided to sign up his farm under the "ag-use" segment of the Clean and Green application form (an example of the form is reproduced this issue).

While this is a busy time of year for farmers, with planting season well under way, the Trust realizes it is a short timeframe. The application deadline is June 1.

"We realize it's going to be a short timeframe. It will be busy, so (to speed up the process) we're going to have notary service available on those given dates," said Martin.

Those who sign up under Clean and Green must have the people whose names that are listed in the deed, including all partnerships, present at time of notarization.

The meeting is open to residents from all portions of the county. Personnel from the Farmland Trust and other organizations will be on hand at the Martin Farm on May 9 to answer questions and help with the form-filling process.

The Trust will have transportation available. Call (717) 354-2272 or 354-8263 for transportation.

Martin indicated that much has to be worked out regarding how to implement the Clean and Green Law with the farmers. The Clean and Green Law value itself depends on the amount of farmers who sign up.

What is certain is that taxes will go up, in some cases substantially, for some farmers even if they sign up for Clean and Green. Depending on the individual farm, if they don't sign up for Clean and Green and opt for "fair market value" on their property, farmers will be facing a near-catastrophic increase — reports by as much as two to three times the amount.

An example of the form is included in this issue of Lancaster Farming. The reverse of the form needs to be notarized, which the Trust will provide free of charge at the dropoff meetings.

According to some estimates, a farmer in the eastern part of the county with Class 1 soils could see their taxes increase by as much as $6,000 under fair market value. Under Clean and Green, depending on the farm, taxes could remain the same or actually become lower.

Some reports indicate that only half of the farmers intend to sign up for the program as of presstime. This could have a major impact on individual taxes due in spring of next year for many farmers.

Martin indicated that, under Clean and Green, ag-use value of land in Lancaster County is eyed at approximately $1,200 per acre. Fair market value puts land per acre at about $5,000 in Lancaster County.

Farmers could face thousands of more dollars in taxes unless they sign up for Clean and Green. Martin said farmers should sign up under the "ag use" segment of Clean and Green.

What will hurt the farmers most, according to Martin, is the fact that, even under Clean and Green, the first acre of a farm will be assessed at anywhere between $40,000-$45,000, which makes up a great deal of the increase. Also, new construction may contribute to increased taxes, and large buildings that are sitting with no use could prove financially burdensome in terms of taxation.

Martin said that much needs to be worked out. "We're not going to know what it's going to be yet, even when the reassessment comes out. What they are going to do is they're going to estimate a millage, and then they're going to see how many farmers sign up for Clean and Green and how many stay at fair market value." The base millage will depend on how many farmers sign up for Clean and Green.

"We have to get on the ball and do something to help these people," said Martin.

Farmers could face thousands of more dollars in taxes unless they sign up for Clean and Green. Martin said farmers should sign up under the "ag use" segment of the law. Here is an example of the Clean and Green application form.

Many farmers don't realize what it will cost them. Early reports indicated that a third of the farmers will see their taxes increase, a third will see them stay the same, and a third will see them drop.

Martin, who has his own farm in preservation with the Trust, indicated that the reassessment takes into account only the land and building size and not what is in the buildings. Equipment and livestock will not be taxed.

There is a $40 filing fee to accompany the sign-up. Sign-up dates and locations are:

- Eugene Martin Farm, May 9, from 12:30 p.m.-9 p.m. The farm is located at 224 Eastern School Road, near the Summit Valley Elementary School south of New Holland between Kinzer Road and New Holland Road. Martin's phone number is (717) 354-8263.
- Martindale Fire Hall, May 10, from 12:30 p.m.-9 p.m. The fire hall is located at Lancaster Avenue near Hurst Rd., Martindale. Call (717) 354-2272 for more information.
- Amos Huyard, May 11, from 12:30 p.m.-9 p.m. Huyard is located at 469 N. Railroad Ave., New Holland. Call (717) 354-2272 for more information.

A dropoff meeting is scheduled at the farm of Eugene Martin on May 9. Martin, who maintains 90 acres next to the Summit Valley School at 224 Eastern School Road, is working with the Earl Township Farmland Preservation Trust to set up a series of meetings, including one at the Martin Farm and two other locations. The plan is to allow farmers to fill out the Clean and Green registration forms and have them notarized at the farm.

Marcia Paterson Coordinates Ag Program And FFA

Milton Hershey School Stresses Ag Involvement For All

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Open the door to the Milton Hershey School agriculture department and the screech of a cockatiel splits the air. Muffled sounds of silkies, rabbits, mice, gerbils, and ferrets ruffling in their nests can be heard in between the cockatiel's screeches and student pleas of "Mrs. Paterson, look at this."

The students — some intent and some with noses wrinkled in disgust at the pungent smell of formaldehyde — are dissecting pigs during an agriculture biology class.

It's Marcia Paterson's first year on the job as coordinator for agriculture and environmental education at the school. And, it's the first year for implementing the FFA program. The school officially received charter membership in February.

But, it isn't the first time that Paterson has started an FFA program from the beginning.

Her enthusiasm for the FFA program is one honed during her years of growing up in Chicago and longing to be involved in agriculture.

"I always wanted to work with plants and animals, but there were no outlets to do that in the city school while I was growing up," Paterson said.

Determination landed some part-time jobs for her. She helped a veterinarian, and during the summer months, traveled overseas to work in citrus groves and dairy farms in Israel.

Paterson then earned a degree in animal science and horticulture at the University of Illinois and later a master's degree in agricultural education.

It wasn't until her college years that Paterson first heard about the FFA program.

Estactic to hear how FFA was enabling students to take an active role in agriculture, Paterson returned to Chicago where she helped other teachers implement the Chicago High School for Agricultural Students. She watched many of her students go on to agriculture-related careers and one of them become the current national FFA president.

During her 10 years at the Chicago school, Paterson's enthusiasm for teaching agriculture has never dwindled. Now, she brings a vibrancy and contagious enthusiasm for the FFA program to the Milton Hershey School.

"FFA helps focus on what students are interested in and their strengths," she said.

She is thrilled that part of the legacy that Milton Hershey passed on to the school is the deed of trust that states that every student should have appreciation and be involved in agriculture and gardening.

About 300 students are enrolled in 4-H and 100 students are chartered FFA members.

"The school's goal is that every student — even non-FFA students — should have the opportunity to be involved in at least two agricultural-based projects each year," Paterson said. "FFA students are involved in many more."

The school not only verbally supports the agricultural program but also provides abundant resources to carry out projects and are creative in their approach.

Some of the student's homes are designated as FFA homes. In these, the house parents help students work on agriculture projects during off-school hours, such as restoring a pond on the grounds.

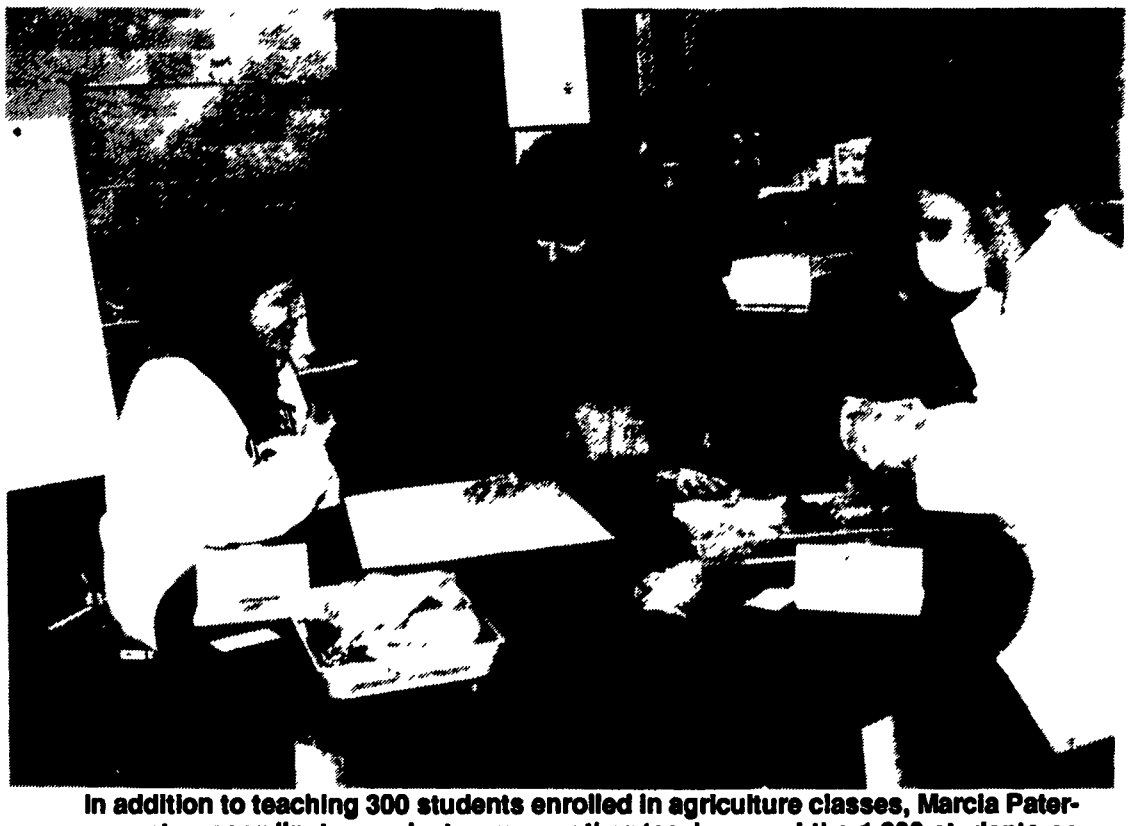
Also, Paterson coordinates agricultural projects with other teachers. One of the big FFA projects now underway is making a miniature golf course inside one of the barns on the grounds. The barn was completely gutted.

Students designed the course and built it to scale before tackling the real project. They built and painted the platform holes, and are now installing them. The old windows in the barn were removed and reglazed by students before reinstallation. Some of the students designed score cards through the communications course. Others chose the golf clubs, picnic tables, or helped with pouring concrete.

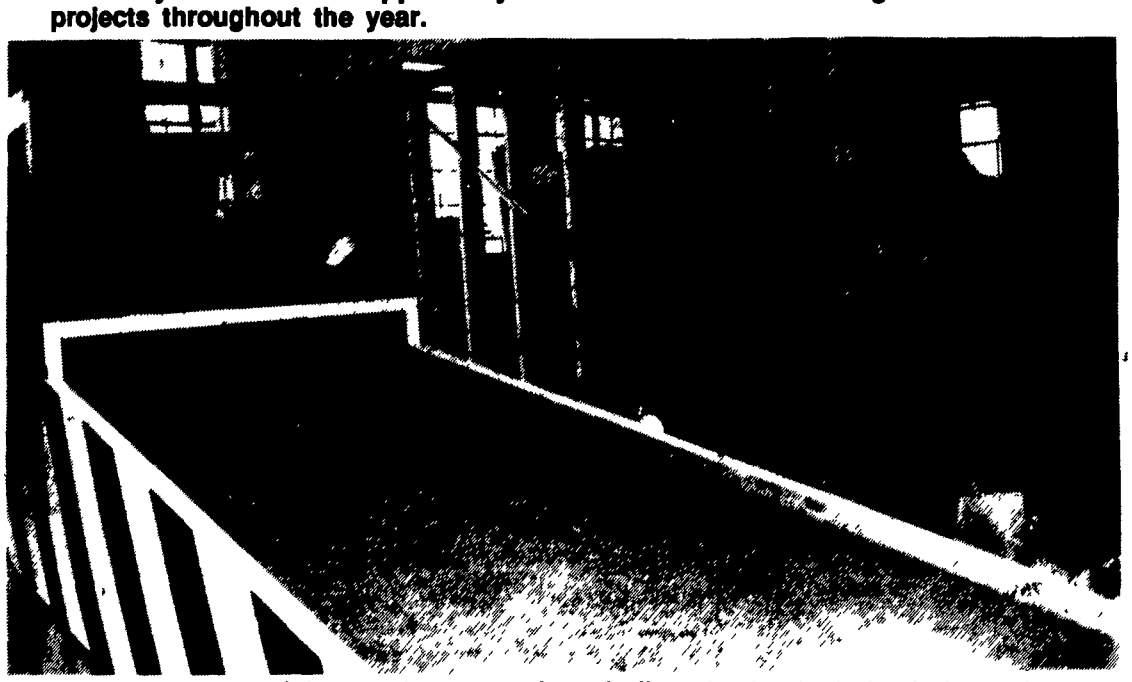
Instead of numbers for the different holes, names have been assigned. Students chose a roadway theme and have named the holes with such discriptive names as dead end, U-turn, detour, cattle crossing, and narrow bridge.

"The project involves team planning and is only possible because every one works

(Turn to Page B3)



In addition to teaching 300 students enrolled in agriculture classes, Marcia Paterson, center, coordinates projects among other teachers and the 1,200 students so that every student has the opportunity to be involved in at least two agriculture-based projects throughout the year.



Marcia Paterson, right, watches as students built and paint the hole platforms for the miniature golf course.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Each student does his or her part to make the indoor miniature golf project a success.

A large FFA project is turning this barn into an indoor miniature golf course. The barn on the school's grounds was used as a dairy until it was phased out about five years ago.

Milton Hershey School

together," Paterson said. The project began last fall and is expected to be completed by the end of summer.

While the ingenuity of involving agriculture into many different projects is not new to Paterson, what is new is her increased involvement in working with students as young as five-years-old on ag projects.

But the challenge of working with students from kindergarden age to high school graduation brings its own rewards.

"Imagine how much these students will know by the time they are adults since they started learning about agriculture at such a young age," Paterson said.

The agriculture biology class is designing a butterfly garden with several ag-biology middle-school students. They will plant flowers that attract butterflies and keep track of the butterfly varieties that they see in the garden. A butterfly box for the butterflies to lay eggs will be installed.

The school is a bit unusual because many students remain on the grounds during the summer months. Summer opportunities for students include many agricultural-related classes such as environmental awareness, nature camp, landscaping, horsemanship, ag-bio technology, and fishing.

National FFA officers will hold a leadership conference with FFA members at the Milton Hershey School on May 5-6.

Paterson believes that the national FFA leaders will inspire her students. Paterson also has some tentative plans for a Russian exchange visit. She previously spent one month in Russia working with the Rural Youth Union. Some of these members between the ages of 14-35 years will be visiting the Hershey school to see what is being done in agricultural studies.

The school was founded in 1909 by Milton and Catherine Hershey, who devoted their fortune to provide education and a wholesome, secure environment for boys whose parents were deceased or unable to care for them.

Now, the school has 1,200 boys and girls from pre-kindergarten through 12th grade enrolled in the educational and residential program. The children live in one of the 91 student homes built on the 3,200-acre central campus plus an additional 6,000-acre extended campus. About 10-14 students are generally housed according to age in each home, but a few pilot homes have students from elementary, middle, and high school.

Under the supervision of Don Hoffer, who teaches construction technology, students remove the old window panes and place new ones in the wooden frames that will be reinstalled in the old barn.

We've had to face up to the fact that a long-time resident of the farm is gone for good.

Sadly, it's almost a year since we last saw her.

Not our mother goose; we keep an eye on her every day. She's been nesting on the mid-pond "island" for a couple of weeks, while the gander guards from the bank of the pond. If a passing flock of geese lands even several hundred yards away in one of the fields, he goes into aerial attack mode. Apparently he knows we're no threat because he tolerates us.

Within the next several days, we should have the answer we anxiously await every year about this time. It's a sort of contest to see who can take the first head count of fuzzy little blessed events as they waddle out of the nest to form a mini-flotilla, bobbing along in the water behind their regal parents.

And we're not missing Tiger, the mother cat, though the whereabouts of her kittens remains a mystery. Tiger has seriously trimmed down her former butterball shape and spends her days tending to her litter of goodness-knows how many babies.

She shows up at the calf nursery right on feeding schedule morning and evenings, along with the flock of relatively useless, male barn cats. (Relatively useless because they prefer handouts of milk and catfood to catching mice and rats; barn cats are expected to at least partially work for their living around here.)

Since Tiger hunts faithfully to help feed her hidden family, she gets special treatment. While the lazy crew of furry feline fellows shares their allotment of milk in the upper part of the barn, I sneak her into the alleyway of the lower level heifer pens for her own private dinners.

Unseen — but only temporarily — are the two or three broody hens in our little flock of chickens. The hens have apparently gone to nesting in those obscure — sometimes senseless — spots they insist on using for egg laying. Too often they will pick a site near a hay drop in the barn floor. When the chicks hatch and begin scratching around for food, at least one will promptly tumble through to the heifer pens below.

Then one of us has to track down and corral the source of the terrified peeping sounds, return it up to the protective mother hen upstairs and take a chance on being feather-flogged in the face for our trouble.

Meanwhile, the roosters gad about the farm in groups of twos and threes, crowing, squabbling and generally making a racket anytime anything disturbs them. Personally, I consider that noisy bunch to be the Chicken Salad flock. And one of these days...

Even our two remaining guineas still hang around, as useless a pair of birds as you could ever find — save for the general entertainment their shenanigans provide. They went to a new pasture with the cows a few days ago, flying and running along with the herd as the girls danced and kicked their hooves in the air over the fresh grass.

Actually, the only one of our usual cast of farm critters not accounted for is The Snake.

Our giant water snake that lived in the stone wall of the springhouse was last seen one afternoon early last summer, when The Farmer was mowing around the pond. Though he didn't think he clipped her with the mower, we haven't seen her since then. Whenever I walk to the pond, I still look for her thick, scaly coils draped over the warm stones of the springhouse's south wall.

Last weekend, we discovered a smaller version, basking in the sunshine, curled around a gap of the stone wall. The Snake, Jr. Or maybe, in Hollywood movie-production style, The Snake II.

Lenni Lenape Corn Planting Festival

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Native American crafts, music and food will highlight the 14th Annual Corn-Planting Festival on May 7 at the Museum of Indian Culture in Allentown.

The Corn-Planting Festival, which inaugurates the Museum's outdoor season, is sponsored by the Lenni Lenape Historical Society and the Museum of Indian Culture. Hours for the event are from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free, but there will be a parking donation of $2. The Festival, which celebrates Pennsylania's regional Native American heritage, will focus on the traditions of the Lenni Lenape people, past and present.

Located on Fish Hatchery Road in Allentown's Lehigh Parkway, The Museum of Indian Culture sits on land that has a long, rich history of human habitation. Now owned by the City of Allentown, the land is believed to have been the site of a Lenni Lenape village long before the Europeans arrived. Stone arrowheads discovered on the site are on display in the Museum. During historic times the land served as a family farm, and finally came into the City's hands as a gift from General Trexler. The eighteenth century stone farmhouse narrowly escaped demolition in 1982, when City Council voted to lease it to the Lenni Lenape Historical Society to house the Museum of Indian Culture.

The Museum of Indian Culture is open Tuesday through Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. Admission is free for Society members, $2 for adult non-members, and $1.50 for children and senior non-members. The Museum is closed Mondays, holidays and during special Society events.

Reduce Risk Of Tick-Borne Disease

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Steven Jacobs, entomologist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, offers these tips for avoiding tick-borne diseases, such as Lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever:

- Avoid high-risk (brushy, wooded) areas and trails, especially in April, May, June and July.
- If you are planning to be in a high-risk area, wear light-colored clothing so you can more easily detect dark-colored ticks.
- Check your clothing for ticks every few minutes.
- Wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants tucked into socks.
- Use a tick repellent containing "DEET" on your skin and clothes, unless you have a known allergy to this compound.
- Inspect your clothes and body carefully after returning from high-risk areas.
- Inspect pets if they have been in a high-risk area. On dogs and cats, ticks often are found around the face and ears. Many shampoos, sprays and dusts are available to eliminate ticks on pets. Tick collars are less effective, but are helful as a repellent.
- If you find a tick on a person or animal, remove it by carefully grasping it at the mouthparts with fine point tweezers and firmly pulling it off.
- To learn more, contact your county office of Penn State Cooperative Extension, your physician or your local health department.

Fresh Ideas For Citrus Fruit

Oranges, grapefruits, and lemons are great for fresh fruit, but don't limit them to fruit salad and fruit drinks. These citrus fruits add unique flavors to meat dishes, rice, dairy products, and eggs.

Try these recipes than experiment on your own. You'll be glad you did.

CARROT ORANGE LOAF

2 cups whole wheat flour, unsifted
⅔ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
⅓ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup skim milk
3 egg whites
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
2 cups shredded carrots

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Oil a loaf pan; set aside. Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, and cinnamon; set aside. In a large bowl, mix oil, milk, egg whites, and orange peel. Add dry ingredients. Mix just until combined. Stir in carrots. Pour into prepared pan. Bake until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Cool in pan for 10 minutes. Loosen with a metal spatula; turn onto a wire rack to cool.

Yield: 16 slices.

ORANGE-BAKED PORK CHOPS

10 pork loin chops
1½ cups orange juice, unsweetened
2½ tablespoons honey
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
1¼ teaspoon grated orange peel
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon onion powder
1 tablespoon soy sauce

Trim fat from meat. Broil chops on a rack in preheated broiler, turning once, until lightly browned. Place chops on rack in shallow pan. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Combine remaining ingredients; pour over chops. Cover and bake one hour.

Mixture is also good when served over ham slices.

ORANGE BREAKFAST BRACER

Orange slice

Place orange juice concentrate and honey in blender container; cover. Mix until well combined. Add buttermilk. Blend until frothy. Serve immediately. Garnish with orange slice, if desired. Serving size: 10 ounces.

Citrus fruit is adaptable to a variety of uses. Here's a light, attractive idea called Lemon Rice Dessert from the USA Rice Council.

LEMON RICE DESSERT

3-ounce package lemon-flavored gelatin dessert
1 cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
1 cup cooked rice, chilled
1½ cups frozen whipped topping, thawed
¼ cup sliced almonds
¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add cold water. Place bowl in ice water and stir until gelatin is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites; stir in rice. Fold in whipped topping until smooth. Lightly fold in almonds, cherries, and lemon peel. Continue to stir gently (over ice) until thickened. Pour into dessert dishes. Cover and chill until ready to serve.

Makes 8 servings.

SHAKER LEMON PIE

4 large lemons, thinly sliced, leave rind on
14 ounces granulated sugar
8 eggs
4 pie crusts

Slice lemons very thin, place in a bowl, sprinkle with sugar, place in refrigerator and marinate for 24 hours.

Beat eggs until foamy; gently stir into the lemon slices.

Line two 9-inch pie pans. Ladle in the lemon mixture and add the second crust. Sprinkle one teaspoon of sugar over the crust. Bake in preheated oven for 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees and bake for 20 minutes more.

ORANGE MUSTARD PORK

1 pound lean boneless pork
½ cup unsweetened orange juice
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1½ teaspoons cornstarch
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
½ cup sliced green onions
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
3 cups cooked brown rice
11-ounce can mandarin orange segments in juice, drained
2 tablespoons slivered almonds, toasted

Thinly slice pork diagonally across the grain. Combine juice, mustard, sugar, and cornstarch; set aside. Cook mushrooms and onions in oil in large skillet over medium-high heat. Remove from skillet. Add pork; cook until browned. Stir in mushroom mixture, rice, and reserved juice mixture. Cook, stirring frequently, until thoroughly heated. Add oranges; toss lightly until heated. Transfer to serving dish and sprinkle with almonds. Makes 4 servings.

ORANGE-APRICOT SHERBET

1 cup light cream
1 cup sugar
¼ cup corn syrup
1 cup canned apricot nectar
1 cup fresh orange juice
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 egg whites

Combine cream, sugar, and corn syrup in saucepan. Heat to scalding. Remove from heat and cool. Stir in apricot nectar, orange juice, lemon juice, orange and lemon rind. Pour into a metal pan and freeze until firm.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Put frozen sherbet in chilled bowl and beat until fluffy (work quickly so sherbet doesn't melt). Fold in egg whites. Return to pan and freeze until firm.

ANSWER — Nancy Sauder, Lititz, wanted a recipe for chicken breasts baked with a creamy dried beef sauce. Thanks to Mary Louise Grove, Hanover, Gina Hawbaker, Denis Angstadt, Oley, and others for sending recipes.

Easy Chicken
6 boned chicken breasts, skinned
1½ pounds chopped dried beef
2 cups sour cream
1 can cream of mushroom soup

Wrap chicken breast in dried beef and place in a 8x8-inch baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over chicken. Bake at 275 degrees for 3 hours.

OR, line casserole with dried beef. Place pieces of chicken breast on top, another layer of dried beef and chicken breasts. No salt is needed because of the dried beef. Mix soup and 1 cup sour cream and pour over chicken. Bake at 325 degrees for 2 hours.

Elegant Chicken
4 to 5 chicken breasts
1 can mushroom soup
1 pint sour cream
1 package dried beef
½ pound bacon

Fry bacon until crisp so it can be broken into bits. Tear dried beef into pieces and place on bottom of baking dish. Place chicken breasts on top of dried beef. Mix soup and sour cream. Pour over chicken. Sprinkle bacon on top. Cover and let marinate in refrigerator overnight. Bake in 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes, covered.

ANSWER — Marie Jackson wanted ideas for taking meals to the field workers and also how to keep hot foods hot and cold meals cold. Here are several recipes from an Ontario County, N.Y. reader, and some ideas for keeping food hot. She keeps hot dogs, Italian sausages, and burgers in a wide-mouth 2-quart thermos, which has been preheated with boiling water. After grilling meat, she puts it in the microwave until it is really hot. She butters rolls and slips the meat onto them as each driver gets off his tractor.

Another hot meal the workers enjoy is pizza turnovers. Take plain bread or pizza dough and roll thin into 8-inch circles. Fill with cheese, meat, and sauce (pepperoni, sauage, any leftover cheese. Seal like a turnover with a dab of water. Don't allow fillings to leak out onto the cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees about 15 minutes until browned.

In hot weather, fill pint freezer containers with cubes of watermelon. Carry a large jug of ice water to refill their individual water jugs.

To keep filling salads, like potato or macaroni, chilled, pack pint freezer container for each person and chill thoroughly before taking to the field.

Deviled eggs — put two havles together and wrap in plastic wrap. No mess. Chill well.

For dessert, pack pie or cake in triangular containers made for this purpose. Cookies that don't crumble easily or brownies go into small bags as do grapes and cherry tomatoes.

Keep baby wipes in each vehicle so hands may be cleaned.

Keep a big heavy-duty plastic container of cookies in the barn where the men pick up and leave their tractors.

1½ cups warm water
1 tablespoon yeast
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon sugar
1¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups flour

Butter Mixture, combine:
½ cup butter, melted
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons dried parsley

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add oil, sugar, and salt. Stir in flour until it is too stiff to stir with spoon. Dump on floured surface and knead several minutes. Let rise until double in size. Dip pieces in butter mixture, twist and place on cookie sheets. Let raise a second time. Bake at 350 degrees about 18 minutes or until golden brown. For extra richness, brush rolls with more butter as they are taken out of the oven.

ANSWER — Sue Pardo, Jarrettsville, Md., wanted a recipe for rugelach. Thanks to Eileen Moore, Chambersburg, who sent a recipe that she used to win blue ribbons at several fairs for these delicious filled cookies. Also, thanks to Naomi Blank, Kinzers; Josephine Matenus, Dallas, and others for sending recipes.

Rugelach

Cream together:
½ pound soft cream cheese
½ pound butter

Blend in:
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Knead well and chill at least 4 hours in refrigerator.

Divide the dough into quarters, Roll out one quarter at a time on a floured board to a round shape like pie dough about ⅛ -inch thick.

Cut into eight wedges. Spread with melted butter. Sprinkle with cinnamon, sugar, raisins, and English walnuts or pecans. Jam may also be used as a filling. Roll up from the wide side, pinch closed. Sprinkle tops with cinnamon sugar. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

Rugelach

Dough:
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
¾ cup butter, softened
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1½ cups all-purpose flour

Filling:
¾ cup raisins
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 cup coarsely chopped, toasted walnuts
3 tablespoons butter, softened

For dough, beat cream cheese, butter, sugar, and vanilla in a medium bowl until fluffy. Add flour, stir until a soft dough forms. Divide dough into three balls. Wrap in plastic wrap and chill overnight.

For filling: combine raisins, sugars, and cinnamon in a food processor; process until raisins are coarsely chopped. Add walnuts and continue to process until finely chopped.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. On a heavily floured surface, use a floured rolling pin to roll one ball of dough into a 12-inch circle. Spread 1 tablespoon butter over dough.

Sprinkle about 9 tablespoons filling over the buttered dough; press lightly into dough. Using a pizza cutter, cut dough into quarters. Cut each quarter into three wedges. Beginning at wide end, roll up each wedge. Transfer to a baking sheet lined with parchment papper. Bake 15-20 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Take off baking sheet and cool. Repeat with remaining dough and filling. Store in an airtight container. Yield: 3 dozen cookies.

Alaskan Bears Score High On Personality

JOY ASCHENBACH
National Geographic
News Service

Susie June would never win "Miss Congeniality" among Alaskan brown bears.

In 10 years of observing Ursus arctos, biologist Robert Fagen has never encountered a more irritable member of the species, especially when she can't get her fill of salmon.

Susie June would never be mistaken for young "C," part of the same Pack Creek bear community on Alaska's Admiralty Island. Her one-letter name could stand for charismatic, captivating or charming.

"She is flamboyant and sparkly, a real mover," Fagen says. "At times she dances instead of walks, kicks up her heels and jumps, twists her head and shoulders sideways. We call her the Great Alaskan Goof — and yet what a genius she is."

Scientists have never systematically studied bear personalities before or assigned them scores based on specific traits.

But during three recent summers of salmon runs, Fagen's team from the University of Alaska Fairbanks scrutinized seven coastal brown bears, the core of the Pack Creek group of about 30, for 16 hours a day.

Fagen, his wife, Johanna, and their field assistants set up a lookout 20 feet off the ground on a wooden platform built in a triangle of trees in the old-growth spruce-and-hemlock forest that borders the creek.

The seven bears, all readily recognizable, come back every season. Each is at least 7 years old, mature enough to be independent and capable of breeding. All are free-ranging, but have become accustomed to the presence of people, boats and aircraft on the island, a popular bear-viewing site.

The Fagens' observations formed the final phase of their 10-year study of brown-bear play in the wild — the longest and most intricate field research ever conducted on animal play. Their work was partly supported by the National Geographic Society.

What makes each bear different from all the rest? "It's not just their genes or their environment or their upbringing," Fagen insists. "Play — or the lack of it — could be much more important in shaping a bear's personality. Each bear has the chance to do something unique and original when it plays. These novel experiences may hold a key to understanding why individual bears differ from one another. It may even explain why their intelligence can take so many different forms."

What the animals are doing out there, Fagen says, "is certainly more than just survival." Daily bear routine consists mainly of traveling about the community, carrying fish, eating and resting. The Fagens identified five distinct traits that give each of the Pack Creek bears individuality:

• Lively, curious and exuberant both in social situations and solitary activities such as moving about and fishing. "C" expresses her individuality in inventive, interactive play. She acts as if she's glad to be a bear. The season of abundant salmon is a good time in her life, and she splashes about.

• Irascible, irritable, grumpy, hostile to other bears. Who else but Susie June? When she hasn't caught many fish, Fagen says, this grouchy old female disciplines her cubs even when they do nothing to provoke her. Annoyed, she hits them with her paw or lunges at them.

"If another bear catches a fish, she'll steal it just to make a point," Fagen says. "And she doesn't even play fair. Of all the bears, only Susie June seems to recognize that she can manipulate other bears' inborn behavior. When she approaches a bear with a fish in its mouth, the other bear instinctively roars. When its mouth opens, the fish drops out and Susie June grabs it."

• Confident with other bears. Cowboy, so called because of his bowlegs, centers his life around social and play relationships.

On a typical summer day, Fagen says, Cowboy plays about 15 percent of the time. He walks right up to other bears to make friends, confident that he'll succeed. Rejection doesn't deter him; Cowboy is "secure in himself. He has a different approach to life. He actually seems to like other bears and never takes offense at their behavior, an unusual attitude among this reclusive species," Fagen says. "And this lack of hostility keeps him out of fish fights. He's never the aggressor nor the victim."

• Expert at fishing. Blackie is quick, efficient and successful at catching salmon. And they're seldom stolen from her.

• Active and alert. Blackie and "P," another female, are the most restless and ever-attentive. "They are always monitoring everything around them," Fagen says. "If they hear a sound or see something moving, up go their heads right away to check it out."

Females Brownie and "M," on the other hand, are slow-moving and mellow. "Brownie's idea of fishing is to sleep next to the creek until the loud splashes of a fish moving upstream wake her," Fagen says. "She catches the fish, eats it and goes back to sleep in the same spot."

Brown bears of all ages play, but Fagen hasn't seen Brownie play in years. Bears are one of a few animals for which play is a part of life even in adulthood. Fagen has observed bears tossing around salmon, sticks and logs. Some adult males wrestle peacefully with favorite partners, male or female.

"For long-lived animals like bears, play may have an additional effect, such as making them more efficient at fishing," says zoologist John A. Byers of the University of Idaho.

"Individual differences in the social play of most mammals are the rule rather than the exception," says biologist Marc Bekoff of the University of Colorado in Boulder, who studies canine play. "These differences are manifested in what animals do when they play and how long they play."

Being a bear amounts to much more than having bear genes or living in bear environments, Fagen says. "Where did Susie June learn to steal fish so cunningly?"

Salmon fishing is a principal activity for Alaska's coastal brown bears. But individual bears approach it differently. A study of a small group of the animals on Admiralty Island has found that one female splashes about exurberantly, while a grumpy old female aggressively steals other bears' fish just to show them who's boss.

Two coastal brown bears wrestle playfully after the one at left awakens the other from a snooze on a log. All bears, including the browns, are among the few animals for which play is a part of life, even when they're grown-up. And even at play, the bears show individual traits that set them apart from others.

Great 8 Ad Shows Pork Cuts

CHICAGO, IL. — The Great 8 -- no, it's not a new drink or snack. It's a new pork advertising campaign targeted to dietitians which features the eight cuts of pork that fall between the skinless chicken breast and chicken thigh in terms of total fat content.

For years, chicken has nutritionally been considered the "gold standard" by healthcare professionals, and when providing dietary recommendations, patients were encouraged to eat chicken, while other meats were taboo. By showing pork can nutritionally compete with chicken, The Great 8 ad is attempting to move pork onto the playing field with chicken.

Bedford County Names Lamb And Wool Queen

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Amy Fisher, daughter of Lana and Rodney Fisher of 736 Green Lane in Bedford, was crowned lamb and wool queen at the annual banquet.

Not a country girl by birth, Amy adopted farm life, thanks to Ada and Bill Myers of Bedford Valley.

"It's a long story," said Ada, who has been helping with sheep since the early days of her marriage.

"Amy was visiting the farm with her sister, a friend of our son, Scott. Amy took to the sheep and asked her parents if she could have some of her own."

"We always go along with what the girls want," admits her mother. "We thought if the Myers are willing, why not?"

Amy has three sheep of her own including two crossbred Oxford and Suffolk and one Suffolk.

She has shown her market lambs at the Bedford Fair and at Jackpot Shows. Last year she had the reserve lightweight champion at the Bedford Fair.

At school, Amy is on the softball and volleyball teams, a member of the honor society, student council, and chorus.

A junior at Bedford High School, she hopes to someday have her own small farm and flock of sheep.

The Myers, who board her sheep, have a 100 head flock of Suffolk and Dorsets.

Amy Fisher, the 1995 Bedford County Lamb and Wool Queen, wasn't always a farm girl.

Choose Fresh Snacks

I can eat everything in sight! At least it seems like that these days. I'm expecting a baby in mid-May and it seems from about my fourth month on I've had an unending appetite. As I eat, my husband Russell so sweetly reminds me that it all must come off in the end!

My usual prepregnancy cravings for junk food have turned to cravings for fresh fruits and vegetables. It's almost scary. But I have to admit, the fresh fruits and vegetables are a much healthier choice and lower in calories too.

Everyone gets the "munchies" and it takes all types of snack foods to satisfy those powerful urges at times. Snacking, it seems, is an American Pastime and one which I thoroughly enjoy. Have you considered livening up your snack time with naturally sweet and juice fresh fruits and crisp crunch vegetables?

A juicy orange is bursting with thirst-quenching flavors. A banana helps to stave off hunger pains. Crunch fresh vegetables dunked in a favorite dip are popular hors d'oeuvers and great for snacks too. Use fresh vegetables to make sweet and spicy breads for coffee-break refreshment.

Fresh fruit and vegetable snacks are the most natural snacks around. Fruits and vegetables also provide bulk to the diet which aids digestion, are low in sodium, contain no cholesterol and are low in calories. Fresh fruit and vegetable snacks are easy to prepare — what's easier than peeling an orange or banana? Raw vegetables are quick, too — just trim and slice if desired. Raw cauliflower florette, sweet potato sticks, broccoli buds and more add crunch to your munchies.

So take the fresh approach to your snacking, like me. (Don't forget you'll get an added bonus in that you won't get those pangs of guilt at snack-time.) Here are some suggestions for fresh snacking. For the freshest snacks, remember to buy bright clean, firm, well-shaped, bruise-free vegetables and fruits. Trim leaves and stalks as little as possible. If you wish to peel fruits or vegetables, keep peelings thin so nutrients are not wasted.

Fresh Snack Ideas:

• Munch on raw vegetables — broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, mushrooms, green onions, green and red peppers, sweet potato strips, radishes — or dip into fresh onion dip.

• Munch on fresh fruit — apples, pears, grapes, peaches, nectarines, plums, bananas, oranges, grapefruit, pineapple, and melon.

• Halve a grapefruit or orange and top with a scoop of cottage cheese.

• Stuff celery with peanut butter or seasoned cream cheese.

• Make frozen banana chips. Cut rounds of banana, spread on aluminum foil, and wrap tightly. Freeze and serve for a great snack.

• Frozen whole bananas are always a treat. Insert a wooden stick into a ripe banana, wrap in plastic and freeze for one hour. If desired, remove and dip into chocolate sauce, re-freeze in plastic until ready to serve.

• Try another banana snack. Slice banana rounds, place on tooth picks, dip in fresh lime, lemon or orange juice to which some honey has been added. Roll pieces in finely chopped nuts.

• Make fresh breads with zucchini or pumpkin.

• Remove several cabbage leaves, wash and dry them, and then roll around cheese sticks or cream cheese and secure with a tooth pick.

• Make fresh spinach dip. Combine in blender: 3/4 pound cooked and drained spinach, 1 cup plain yogurt, 2/3 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion and 1 tablespoon lemon or lime juice. Blend well and serve.

• Serving guests a late-night snack? Skewer grapes, berries, chunks of melon, apple, pear, pineapple or any fruit, alternating cubes of cheese or rolled slices of ham or turkey.

• Fresh beverages are great tasting snacks and good energy boosters, too. Combine milk, orange juice, a banana and a few ice cubes in a blender. Blend for one minute and serve.

• Make a fresh fruit pizza! Press a pie crust into a pizza pan or cookie sheet. Prick with a fork and bake at 450 degrees F for 10-15 minutes until lightly browned. Soften creamed cheese with fresh orange juice, beat until creamy. Coat the baked crust with cream cheese mixture and top with any combination of sliced fresh fruit.

Fine Tastes With Decorative Flair Dominate Kitchen Kaper

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Some people humorously refer to home tours as "legal snooping." But ask the more than 700 guests who participated in the eighth annual Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour, and they will tell you that their "snooping" has a purpose.

The purpose runs the gamut from searching for ideas for making their own homes more attractive to sampling cruisine from local restaurants.

Ideas abounded for interior design, table settings, floral arrangements, and distinctive food in the seven Ephrata-area homes open for the tour.

Decorating styles included eclectic, country, contemporary, Victorian, and combinations.

Although some of the homes are quite elegant, others show how ordinary items can be arranged attractively. Many of the homes reflect the owners' lifestyles. Some are designed to entertain large groups of friends, some to display antique collections, and some for coziness. A barn transformed for church use was even included in the tour. By keeping the lovely warmth of the wooden barn rafters and the stone walls exposed, the barn offered a dramatic approach for everyday living.

Ideas for displaying collections ranged from displaying 25 Hummel plates lining an entrance wall to antique cupboards and custom-made shelves used for china and glass collections.

On the day of the tour, each home had a local florist design coordinating flower arrangements. Many had floral displays on porches and patios as well.

Tastes of food specialties from local restaurants varied from miniature pastries served by Byers Butterflake Bakery, Leola, to hearty servings of chicken monterey sandwiches from Family Time Restaurant.

Here are some recipes for food served by the local restaurants.

CHICKEN ORZO SOUP

3 quarts chicken stock
1½ cups cooked, diced chicken
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 medium diced onion
1 cup diced celery
½ cup diced carrots
1 cup orzo-uncooked
1 tablespoon chopped parsely (fresh)

To chicken stock, add pepper, salt, sauteed onion, celery and carrots. Let simmer for 15-20 minutes. Add orzo and let simmer for another 7-10 minutes. Add diced chicken to soup and fresh parsley to garnish.

Silk City Diner

12 ounces evaporated milk
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups shredded American cheese
4 cups chicken, diced
2 cups celery, diced
½ cup green and red sweet pepper, chopped

Cook noodles in salt and water. Saute celery and pepper in butter until tender. Add cheese and milk to noodles to melt cheese. Mix together and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

MAPLE GLAZED CARROTS

1 pound baby carrots
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup maple syrup
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute cooked carrots in butter, add half cup maple syrup. Simmer one minute.

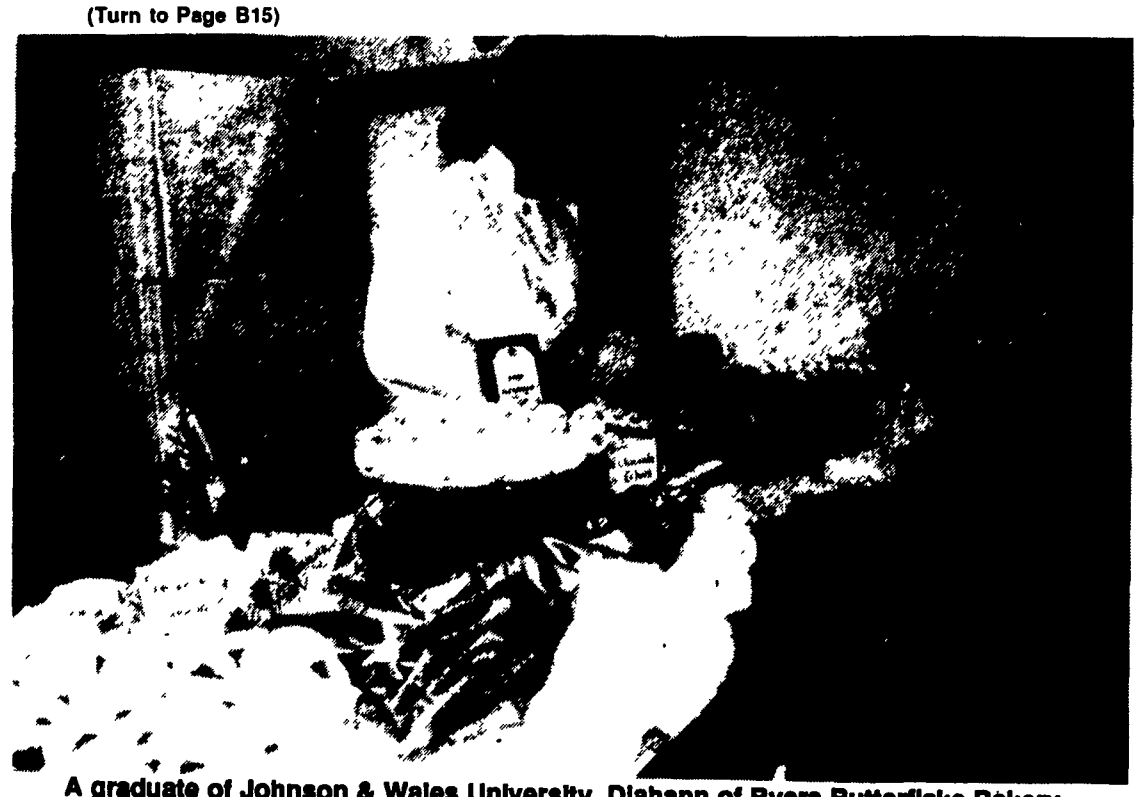
Fine dining requires attractive table settings.

This floral arrangement by La Fleur Boutique is an example of dramatic touches added by designers.



A graduate of Johnson & Wales University, Diahann of Byers Butterflake Bakery adds artistic flair to miniature pastries and distinctive desserts.

This breakfast nook provides a cozy spot for a cup of coffee.

Sunrooms for year-round living appeals to many looking for ideas to expand their living space.

PECAN DIAMONDS

8 ounces brown sugar
2 ounces granulated sugar
6 ounces honey
1 pound pecan pieces

Turn off heat and stir in heavy cream. Pour into rolled, unbaked crust* in a 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Make sure crust is brown and mixture is bubbling.

Short Dough Crust*:

8 ounces sugar
3 eggs
1 pound 3 ounces flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

PENNE WITH PESTO CREAM SAUCE
Serves 20

10 pounds penne pasta
1 quart heavy cream
1 quart half and half
1 quart milk
1 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup pesto

Bring a pot of salted water to boil and cook penne until it is al dente. Remove from water and cook immediately under running cold water. In a separate pan, bring milk, heavy cream, and half and half to a soft boil. Add salt, pepper, and pesto, stir well. To thicken without using a lot of butter or fat, make a slurry using equal protions of cornstarch and cold water. Slowly add slurry to boiling liquid, stopping occasionally to to check thickness of sauce. The sauce should have the consistency of chowder. When you reach this point, reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Place penne in a large mixing bowl and pour the sauce over the top. Toss the pasta and serve.

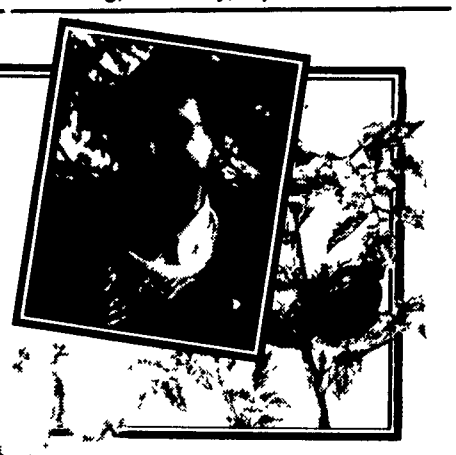
All Gardens Great & Small

by
York Co.
Horticultural Agent
Tom Becker



For those who remember the war years, 1942 was a very gloomy year with very real doubt of success. But, a media blitz of victory garden articles provided those on the home front optimism through 1943 and 1944.

Through remembrances of "Making Victory Gardens Victorious" all gardeners can share in their families' success. Here's what one York countian remembers.

Despite all the questions in the media relating to: Should our troops be in the war? "Everyone" was for the war effort. The same was true for victory gardens. So, if you weren't doing it, then you were not doing your share. It was a time so completely different as far as patriotism. We were all Americans: We wanted to win. And, whether you went off to fight (my husband was away for 2 years) or not, we all helped. My father-in-law was a wonderful gardener. I'd go over to visit and we'd can and do the garden things we don't do anymore. He started my love for gardening then as it is today. Gardening fulfills something in your life that nothing else does — Jean Semmelman, York.

The goal of any victory garden was to supply a continuous supply of fresh vegetables throughout the growing season for the family. All fruits and vegetables were grown with very little waste. Gardens on a smaller scale (150 to 5000 square feet in size) became known as victory gardens.

Unlike the farm market gardens that were common throughout rural York County, Victory gardens were intensively planned and maintained to fit the needs of the family and all of its members. The size of the family determined the size of the victory garden. And, each member of the family had a role in its success or failure. Since most work in the garden was done by hand without the use of rototillers and tractors, everyone worked in the garden.

Working in the garden included tending to hotbeds and cold frames used to raise early tomatoes, cabbage, broccoli, lettuce and other vegetables. Hotbeds needed daily (sometimes hourly) care. Cold frames required less work.

A hotbed is artificially created and heated by fermenting manure or by electricity. Fresh manure replaces the soil for a depth of 2 feet under the frame of the hotbed. A 6-inch topsoil layer is placed over the manure.

Victory gardeners started their vegetable and flower seeds in window boxes and cold frames built to the same dimensions as storm windows. Windows were reused in the garden as well as on the house — a double use.

Victory gardeners were admonished to avoid planting too early the warm-season vegetables like beans, squash and corn. Plant only radish, carrot, beets, lettuce or peas in March and April. Don't run rows up and down a hill. If you garden on a hillside, run the rows along the side of the hill.

Lastly, don't plant too much of one vegetable. Plant a variety of things. Be diligent at weeding. Don't let weeds become your major crop.

Standing up to Bullies

As a kid, did you hate going to the bus stop? Well, my "bus stop" was at the end of a long farm lane, and the only people there were my brothers and sisters, but for some kids the bus stop is a dreaded place. For others, it's the cafeteria or school parking lot. Why? Because bullies hang out there.

"Bully"—the tough kid who picks on the underdog incessantly. If I were in charge, bullying would be outlawed. During elementary school years, physical aggression among peers tends to decrease, but verbal abuse, insults, and threats increase. There may be lots of reasons why bullies choose to intimidate others. Two of the most common are that they are seeking attention (any way they can) and that they are insecure. By putting on a "tough" face, they try to cover their self-doubts. Others act out continually because they have a reputation to uphold or they may be angry about something else in their lives and another child happens to get that anger dumped on them undeservedly.

But knowing that doesn't make the problem go away, and if your children or grandchildren are the brunt of their bullying, you want to do something. Adults can help in this situation. They can help by teaching children skills to cope and respond appropriately. In most cases, having an adult come in and "fix" the problem does not solve the problem long-term.

The first strategy is to teach children to respond to the situation using a problem-solving approach rather than a power stance. Child development expert, Janet Gonzalez—Mena describes this process. She recommends that parents teach children to respond assertively, but calmly. Don't match anger for anger or taunt for taunt, because the bullying will escalate. Unless there is physical danger, it's best if adults don't intervene, rather teach children to express their feelings. A firm, "I don't like it when you grab the ball from me" and moving on to solve the problem is a better approach. If the sides are uneven, adults are encouraged to stand by a child as she expresses her feelings.

Research about teens who become involved with violent crimes shows that most people resort to violence only after they've run out of other ways to solve a problem. Another way you can help your child deal with bullying is to play "What if." Ask the child, "What if Jeremy pulls your book bag off your shoulder and says nasty things to you tomorrow in the hallway? What could you do?" Often children come up with the "angry" ideas first. "I could hit him." In order to get them to go beyond that, parents should say, "Yes, you could. What else could you do?" After a list of at least six different ideas are generated, go back and discuss each suggestion by saying, "What do you think would happen next if you did..." This teaches children to evaluate options. Remember, sometimes kids don't know what will happen, so they fear trying it. For instance, what might happen if you turn around and walk away?

Gonzalez-Mena also reminds parents that "bullying victims" don't just happen. They are created. Here's how she suggests you can help a picked-on child break the cycle.

1. Don't blame the victim. Although he may unconsciously attract attention, it is not his fault. He doesn't "deserve what he gets."

2. On the other hand, don't lavish attention on the victim either, or he may fall into that role simply to get your comfort and undivided attention. Provide calm assurance and care without going to excess.

3. Teach the child to prevent aggression before it happens by choosing safe places and people. In the face of danger, stay in an area with other adults or have a "safe" store, home, or play area to go to.

4. Teach children phrases to say to stick up for themselves. "I don't need to spend time with a person like you." "It's not okay to hit people even when you're angry."

5. Support children who do stand up for themselves by making sure the aggression will not be repeated.

In addition to teaching your children skills to cope with the bullies in their lives, you also need to reaffirm, reaffirm, reaffirm. Tell them and show them how much you love them. Say things like, "I'm glad you're here, a part of our family." "I love who you are." "All your feelings are okay with me." "You're lovable at every age." "I believe you can be creative and competent."

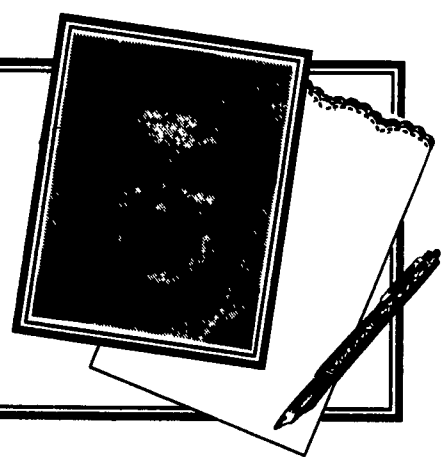
Ida's Notebook

by
Ida Risser



We have had a cool spring and our garden is rather slow starting. Our sugar peas are six inches high now but we expect them to get to be six feet high. Of course, this requires a fence but then they are easy to pick.

My husband has been taking very good care of his asparagus bed and he expects a bumper crop. For years he was too busy with farm work and the patch got quite weedy. It kept me busy to keep the weeds out of our large garden. Years ago, I raised peas and strawberries to sell to the neighbors in the nearby development. Now it seems these folks no longer freeze vegetables or make jam from fruit.

Again we have a fox and five little ones in a wooded island. It is probably the reason that there are so few rabbits. But, they have not bothered the squirrel population as they are everywhere. It has even been reported that a coyote was sighted across the river on a hillside.

Our bluebird houses have been emptied and are ready for newcomers. So far, I've only seen one pair but several pair of Jenny Wrens are investigating.

This spring I ordered so many plants and bulbs that there were not enough flower beds to put them in satisfactorily. Allen was kind enough to rototill two areas of the lawn to give me more space. If they give flowers that are half as pretty as the pictures in the catalogs, I shall be pleased.

It is nice to have our grandchildren home from their week in Chicago visiting their other grandparents. Now I'll be taking care of them several times this week as a friend is being married in Washington, D.C. It seems there is always some activity to attend.

On Saturday, April 22, the meeting of the Lancaster Society of Farm Women #18 was hosted by Mrs. Pat Lueck in the Grandview United Methodist Church. Mrs. Warren Weaver was in charge of devotions. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Shepherdson, as vice president, chaired the meeting. Dennis Lueck spoke of his living and studying in Sweden—a part of his three year travels in Europe. Excellent slides gave us many views of the everyday life in Sweden. Dennis was home from the state of Oregon to design and plant two small memorial gardens in front of the church, in memory of our dear friend Arnold Lueck and the second, a planting to honor his mother and the wife of the late Arnold Lueck, long employed at the Farm and Home Center.

Light refreshements enhanced this springtime meeting. The ladies were dismissed after singing their theme song, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

A bus trip to Gettysburg is planned for May 15. To make reservations call (717) 464-4123.

Lancaster Society 20

Thursday, April 6, Lancaster Farm Women Society #20 entertained Societies 15, 26 and the County officers at the Memorial United Methodist Church in Quarryville to a covered dish luncheon. There were 46 in attendance and for the Roll Call each told where they plan to vacation in 1995.

Pastor Price asked the blessing before the meal and the scripture was read by Verna Hess, taken from Psalm 24. A poem was read by Jean Ressel, which had been written by Sadie Greenleaf.

Following the bountiful meal the president, Nancy Axe, presided at the business meeting. The Sunshine Committee reported five cards sent and one bouquet. It was voted to give $100 to a family who were victims of a fire and on April 30 there will be a bake sale to save the Star Barn. Anyone contributing should have their items to Nancy on the 29th. It was stated that Society #12 will disband.

For the program Kay Graybill had a Seeing Eye dog and explained how they train the dogs so they can guide the blind.

4-H Rifle Clubs Hold Competition

On April 2, the five 4-H Rifle clubs — Alexandria, Marklesburg, Newton-Wayne, Trough Creek, and Tussey Mountain in Huntingdon County — met at the Alexandria Sportsman's Club for a "shoulder-to-shoulder" competition to mark the end of 12 weeks of postal competition that started in January.

The 4-H rifle program fillows rules and guidelines set by the NRA (National Rifle Association) for smallbore, .22cal., position shooting. The competitors shoot at a distance of 50 feet from four positions, prone, standing, sitting and kneeling, at targets 1¼ inches in diameter. The maximum score per ball is 10 points and a maximum overall score of 400 Xs designate shots in the center of the bull inside the "10 ring."

The county shoot-off is divided into three categories:

- Free rifle, which is a rifle designed with many features and adjustments to fit the rifle to the shooter's size and position.
- Standard rifle, which doesn't have any or limited features and adjustments.
- Prone match for shooters who have just begun the program and have not mastered shooting from all four positions.

The rifle program helps young people develop hand/eye and body control and also leads them to set goals and work to achieve those goals while having fun. The Huntingdon County 4-H Rifle program is open to all youth ages 12 - 18. If you are interested in shooting sports or other 4-H programs, please contact the Extension Office at (814) 643-1660.

WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within THREE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry. The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next three years.

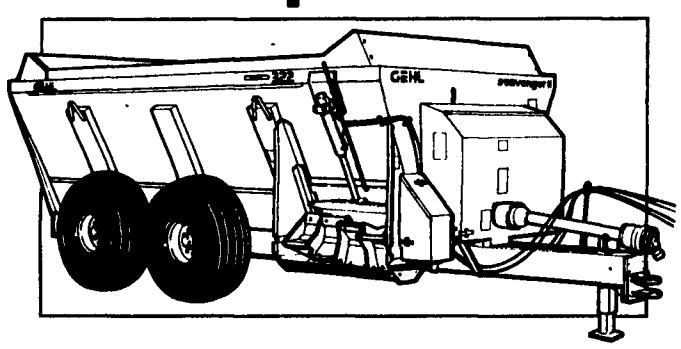
GEHL

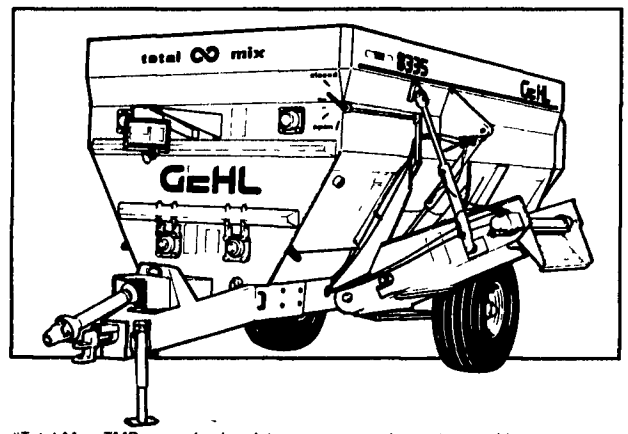
North America's #1 V-Tank Spreader



The Gehl Scavenger® II is the "original" V-Tank spreader and still the best. It delivers outstanding performance in all types of manure from liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed manure

- Patented square-tube auger - Hydraulically powers up and down to break up solid material
- Varillo discharge - Spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control
- Five models - From 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacities to match your operation
- 10-Year warranty - Against rust-through on the tank for peace of mind
- Options include - Truck-mounted units and hydraulic lids

TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content

- "Hay-slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built to last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

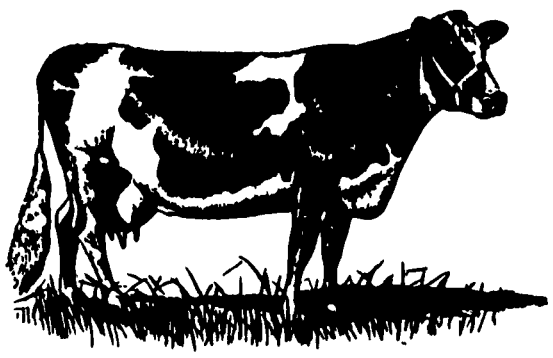
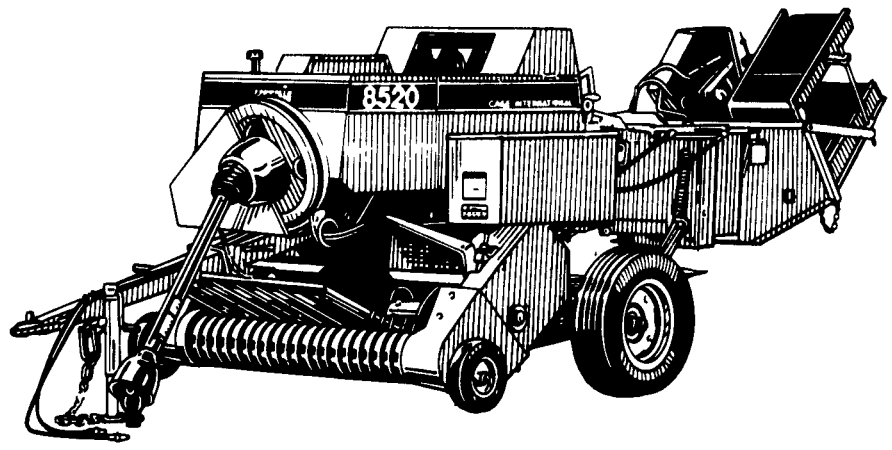
"Her" Choice





If Holsteins could talk, the conversation around the hay manger would be "Case IH Center Line Balers".

Why? More leaves per bale.

Our low profile pickup allows alfalfa hay to retain more dry leaves. We don't lift the windrow as high, saving leaves at the pickup. We also start to compress the hay before it enters the chamber to lock in leaves throughout the flake...leaves don't settle to the bottom and fall out the back of the baler to the degree of older style square balers.

More leaves means more milk, without increased overhead. Many studies show increased production of $1,000 per year over a milking herd of 100 with 2% leaf savings!

Case IH Center Line Balers...one of the quickest ways to increase milk production without adding cows. Improve your bottom line with improved leaf savings.

Record Cattle Numbers, Youth Involvement At World Beef Expo

MADISON, Wis. — More cattle and more youth involvement contributed to the success of World Beef Expo '95 here recently. During the three-day event, 1,417 cattle from 15 different breed shows paraded through the show ring in the open show and junior show. This represented a 27 percent increase over the number of cattle exhibited at the 1994 World Beef Expo.

The four largest shows included the Polled Hereford, Angus, Simmental and Belgian Blue breeds. Twenty-three states and two Canadian provinces (Ontario and Saskatchewan) were represented this year in the cattle exhibition — also a jump from last year of only 15 states. Two new breed shows were added to this year's Expo, which included the Texas Longhorns and Scottish Highlands.

Rob Duis of Champaign, Illinois took top honors in the junior division of the "Spirit" Youth Sweepstakes during World Beef Expo. Rounding out the top three in the junior division were Shane Richey of Plymouth, Indiana, second place; and Jennifer Abrahamson of Houston, Minnesota, third place. The senior division champ was Jordan Redalen of Fillmore, Minnesota. Second place went to Wess Richey of Plymouth, Indiana, and Jerad Zimmerman of Lancaster, Wisconsin, won third place honors.

Youths who participated in the "Spirit" Youth Sweepstakes competed for expanded premiums. All youth activities were open to any boy or girl who was nine to 19 years of age as of January 1, 1995. Categories for competition in the "Spirit" Youth Sweepstakes included seven contests: showmanship, practical herdsmanship, beef evaluation, public speaking, individual quiz, heifer show, and steer show.

More than 500 animals were entered in the junior show with 344 youths participating, a slight increase over 1994. The grand champion market heifer was shown by Jesse Singerhouse of Menomonie, Wis. The reserve champion market heifer was shown by Jason Capatske of Beldenville, Wis. The champion commercial breeding heifer was exhibited by Tabitha Keene of Potosi, Wis. and the reserve champion commercial breeding heifer was shown by Jennifer Abrahamson of Houston, Minn.

The overall steer champion was shown by Rusty Day of Meadow, Texas and Steve Runkel of Burlington, Wis. showed the reserve champion overall steer.

A total of $420,590 was generated in sales from the six breed sales during World Beef Expo '95. Two new sales were added this year for the Limousin and Salers breeds. The top-selling animal among all six sales was an Angus by the name of Woodhill Evergreen 120-193 which sold for $12,250. She was consigned by Woodhill Angus of Viroqua, Wis.

In March, the World Beef Expo board of directors voted to change the dates for 1996 World Beef Expo to October 10-12, on the heels of World Dairy Expo (October 2-6, 1996). The change to a fall schedule will eliminate conflicts with planting and calving season and will enhance the sale of bred heifers.

The addition of club calf and finished steer shows and sales is also expected. The date change will also help take advantage of the large international crowd that attends World Dairy Expo, of which many are involved in both beef and dairy production in their native country.

Cutter Shreds Like A Flail

SELMA, Ala. — Now farmers can afford the kind of crop shredding they want.

An innovation from Bush Hog makes fine crop shredding of even tough cotton and corn residues economical by providing the fine shredding of a flail mower without the high maintenance costs.

"Farmers need fine shredding to control insects, facilitate minimum tillage and speed decomposition," said Robert O. Moore, Bush Hog's vice president, sales. "Until now, that kind of shredding was only available with a flail mower and maintenance costs for flail mowers used in crop shredding are high. The new counter-rotating gearbox from Bush Hog solves the problem by providing fine shredding with two counter-rotating rotary cutter blades mounted one above the other."

Three new rotary cutters with counter-rotating blades will be available through Bush Hog dealers late this summer. They include the Bush Hog Model CR15R 15 foot wide rigid cutter, the Model CR15F 15 foot wide flexwing cutter, and the Model CR20 20 foot wide flexwing cutter. All three models feature dual counter-rotating blades mounted vertically and turning at approximately 18,000 FPM.

Designed for both crop shredding and pasture maintenance, the new counter-rotating Bush Hog rotary cutters deliver finer crop shredding for better insect control and residue decomposition. The more finely shredded material resists buildup during minimum tillage practices.

"Three reasons make these units attractive to farmers," said Moore. First, the new machines are dual-purpose. They are designed for both shredding and pasture maintenance. Second, they are rugged Bush Hog-designed and built rotary cutters that won't have the high maintenance required with flail mowers. Third, because of their rugged construction, farmers can cut closer to the ground.

Seam Roof System Eliminates Crimping

PEORIA, Ill.—Morton Buildings, Inc. has introduced the Insta-Lok standing seam roof system. The structural integrity and self-sealing design allows the Insta-Lok system to be used with almost any building type, including low, moderate, and steep pitched roofs as well as vertical rib wall applications.

The patented interlocking design of Morton Buildings Insta-Lok eliminates the need for crimping or mechanically sealing the seams. Insta-Lok panels are UL-90 listed. Heavy duty concealed anchor clips attach the panels to the framing. A factory-applied gasket seals the panels. This design reduces costs and allows faster and more precise installation. The system also accommodates expansion and contraction of the roof during changes in temperature.

The Insta-Lok 16-inch-wide rib spacing achieves an aesthetically pleasing appearance while adding strength and reducing framing. Insta-Lok provides a clean, uninterrupted appearance and allows the use of varying angles and pitches to create interesting and unique details to the structure.

Insta-Lok panels are made of zinc-coated .019 inch or .024 inch minimum thickness steel and are finished in choice of Kynar 500®/ Hylar5000® resin fluoropolymer or bare galvalume®. Panels are custom-cut to fit the application.

Combine Features Help Improve Grain Quality

DULUTH, Ga. — For 1995, Gleaner is offering several new and innovative combine features designed to meet the tough demands of today's producer.

All four Gleaner combine models offer enhancements in the grain threshing and separating system and a redesigned gearbox with a wider selection of transmission speeds. Options include a chrome bin loading auger and power rear ladder.

A 130 amp air-cooled alternator and optional dual wheels are available on the Models R62 and R72 while the Model R52 boasts increased engine horsepower and a grain bin "wing" extension option.

All four Gleaner combine models offer enhancements in the grain threshing and separating system and a redesigned gearbox with a wider selection of transmission speeds. Options include a chrome bin loading auger and power rear ladder.

Already known for its unique natural flow harvesting system engineered for clean threshing and gentle handling of crops, Gleaner goes one step further with an improved "high wire" rear concave design available on the Models R42, R52, R62 and R72. This design features concave wires that are located closer to the threshing surface, providing a more complete and gentler threshing. Moreover, a reduction in the number of concave wires results in a 25 percent increase in open area for the grain to fall, improving separation and grain quality.

All models of Gleaner combines will also see an increase in productivity and efficiency with an improved drive system. The redesigned four speed constant mesh helical gear box provides an increase in first and second gear speed ranges to accommodate heavy loads and varying conditions. For example, first gear ground speed has been increased by 25 percent while second gear speed has been increased a full 27 percent.

Among the options available on all four Gleaner models is a chrome bin loading auger with double thickness flighting that provides extended wear when harvesting high volume or abrasive crop. A convenient power rear ladder provides quick, easy access to the engine and processor service area.

Grant Program Seeks Southern Maryland Farmers

CHARLOTTE HALL, Md. — The Tri-County Council for Southern Maryland is looking for interested farmers to participate in a demonstration program established to help southern Maryland farmers learn more about alternative agriculture enterprises.

The program's goal is to assist farmers by providing "seed money" for on-farm demonstrations and applied research projects and to determine the feasibility and profit-making potential of new agricultural enterprises. Any farmer within the Southern Maryland region is eligible to submit a proposal for consideration.

Grant requests should be between $500 and $1,000. Requests for more than $1,000 will be considered based on the merits of the proposal and the availability of funds.

Alternative agriculture project areas include aquaculture, field crops, floriculture, forestry, horticulture, livestock, turf production, seminars, networking groups, and marketing or feasibility studies. The deadline for applying has been extended to May 15.

To receive a copy of the grant application or for additional information about this program, contact Candy Walter, agricultural specialist for the Tri-County Council, at (301) 884-2144 or (301) 870-2520.

Horse Show Set

ERIE (Erie Co.)—The twenty-first annual Open Horse Show to benefit the Erie County 4-H/Youth Development Program will be held on Sunday, May 21, at the Waterford Fairgrounds. The show will feature 42 classes, including halter classes, game classes, and performance classes.

According to Debi Bartosek, 4-H volunteer leader and chairman of this year's show, local businesses have combined efforts to sponsor jackpot barrels, jackpot raised box keyhole, and jackpot poles classes. Exhibitors will compete for a piece of the jackpot in each of these classes.

The show, which will get underway promptly at 9 a.m., is open to all interested competitors eight years old and older. Although several classes are limited to 4-H members, most of them are open. P.O.N.Y. rules will be followed where applicable.

The entry fee to participate in any jackpot class is $5 per entry. Entry fees for all other scheduled classes are just $3 per entry.

Admission to the fairgrounds is free, and the public is welcome to come out and watch the show. Exhibitors in the classes will receive ribbons and prizes. In addition, three high point trophies will be awarded to top exhibitors in games, English, and Western classes. Don Recchiuti from New Philadelphia, Ohio, will be the judge for the 1995 show.

According to Bartosek, the show will benefit the entire Erie County 4-H/Youth Development Program. All proceeds will be used to help cover the costs of conducting the annual 4-H Fair or to provide scholarship monies to 4-H members attending 4-H camp or a number of other 4-H events and activities.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

In 1983, an outbreak of a mild form of avian influenza began in the U.S. and was allowed to spread freely. Within six months, the virus had mutated to a highly virulent form that claimed more than 17 million birds, with costs in the tens of millions of dollars before it was ultimately eradicated by an aggressive program of quarantine and depopulation.

Now, the same scenario appears to be repeating itself just south of the U.S. border in Mexico, where more than 25 million birds in three Mexican states are already infected.

Because initially when the virus surfaced last spring, infected birds contained only a mild strain of the virus confined to the lungs and gastrointestinal tract (GIT), Mexican officials were reluctant to take the "extreme measures" that were ultimately necessary in the U.S. But, as happened here, the critical mutations in the viral protein necessary to transform it into a highly virulent form occurred by the start of this year.

In order for the virus to infect cells throughout the body, its hemagglutinin (HA) protein must be altered in such a way that it contains a series of basic amino acids. Once this type of mutation occurs, the protein is activated by enzymes throughout the bird. In mild strains of the virus, cleavage of the protein is limited to the lungs and GIT, where the necessary enzymes are produced. In the more virulent mutated form, the protein can be cleaved by an enzyme that occurs throughout the body, resulting in systemic infections with internal hemorrhaging and collapse of the central nervous system, as the brain becomes involved. In this form, mortality can range from 20 to 100 percent.

Because of the severe economic situation in Mexico, depopulation is deferred to containment and vaccination. But with limited supplies of vaccine, a widespread program is impossible, with grandparent and breeder stocks receiving precedent over layers and broilers. By establishing strict control over traffic into and out of both infected areas and remote regions where breeder operations are maintained, the Mexican government hopes to preserve a source for repopulating the industry.

With the coming of spring, the movement of migratory waterfowl from South and Central America northward raises concerns, as some species are known to harbor the mild form of avian flu. With the lessons learned here over a decade ago, and their reinforcement through similar events in Mexico this year, experience is clearly on the side of the U.S. poultry industry.

Base Replant Decisions On Careful Stand Evaluation

GOLDEN VALLEY, Min.— Conditions such as a late frost, hail, insect damage, or seedbed problems occasionally reduce stands, creating possible replant situations.

Because initial field appearances may not correspond to an equal yield loss, Mark Mattingly, Northrup King Co. agronomist for the Northeast, advises growers to evaluate the facts before deciding to replant a field.

Corn plants can and often will outgrow leaf damage, especially when the growing point is protected beneath the soil surface, Mattingly said. If new leaf growth appears within a few days after the injury, the plant is likely to survive and produce normal yields.

Before replanting a field, growers should consider the calendar date and the current level of stand reduction. The later the date, the higher the stand loss must be to make replanting an economical option. Growers should also evaluate stand uniformity. Large gaps in plant stands reduce yields more than if the plants are spaced evenly.

The Northrup King agronomist emphasizes that yield gains from replanting must offset the extra costs of tillage, seed, and labor. Herbicides and insecticides may also need to be reapplied, adding additional expenses. In addition, replanting may delay planting other corn or soybean acres, jeopardizing their yield potential as well.

By following university and industry related guidelines, Mattingly said growers can make the best economic choice for their operation. For additional advice on evaluating potential replant situations, growers can contact a local Northrup King agronomist by calling (800) AGVISOR.

Corn Growers Speak Out At Field Hearings

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Across the Corn Belt, corn farmers are speaking out in support of their commodity at a series of congressional and administration field hearings. Their message: Protect agricultural programs from unfair budget cuts and provide for full flexibility in the 1995 Farm Bill.

"Shift the decision-making from Washington, D.C., to the farms," said Bill Northey, vice president of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), at a hearing held in northwestern Iowa.

Northey, who farms near Spirit Lake, Iowa, pressed members of the House Agriculture Committee to include in the 1995 Farm Bill provisions that permit producers to shift productive resources in response to market, agronomic, environment, and conservation considerations.

"If all federal programs had taken the same cuts as agriculture, we would have a budget surplus today," he said.

Nebraska corn grower Richard Plock recently testified at a House Agriculture Committee hearing in Grand Island, Neb. Plock, too, pressed lawmakers to consider how many funding cuts agriculture has already absorbed.

"Agriculture has done more than its share," said Plock, who is president of the Nebraska Corn Growers Association and farms near York, Neb.

Both growers noted that federal support, adjusted for inflation, has been cut nearly 60 percent since 1985. The corn target price was $3.03 per bushel; it is now $2.75. The deficiency payment was calculated using a five-month price; it is now based on a 12-month price. In addition, frozen program yields and unpaid flex acres have eroded the percentage of expected production covered by deficiency payments.

The corn growers also spoke in support of a targeted and flexible conservation program. Plock advocated creation of voluntary whole farm plans to manage natural resources and progressively address environmental concerns, particularly as they relate to meeting goals of the Clean Water Act. Producers who adopt voluntary practices must have a "safe harbor" from further regulation, he said.

To make their case for flexibility coupled with adequate support, corn grower leaders intend to speak out at numerous field hearings this spring. Scheduled to testify at House Agriculture Committee field hearings are New York corn grower Ron Robbins in Syracuse, N.Y., and Kansas grower John Wise in Dodge City, Kan.

In addition, NCGA will offer testimony in favor of a strong U.S. Sugar Program at a House Agriculture Committee hearing in Belle Glade, Fla. Representatives of NCGA and state corn grower associations testified in Colorado and Minnesota and will speak out at hearings in Missouri, Illinois, and North Dakota.

Staying Competitive Is Seminar Topic

DES MOINES, Iowa — Strategies pork producers can use to stay competitive will be addressed during three days of educational seminars at World Pork Expo on June 9-11 here at the Iowa State Fairgrounds.

Producers are encouraged to stop by the Cattle Barn Sales Arena to hear some of the nation's leading experts address techniques they can use to stay competitive in this competitive industry.

Popular pork industry topics, including financial management, segregated early weaning, producer networking, and nutrition will be repeated throughout Expo.

On Friday, June 9 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., the economics of using new technologies and Porcine Reproductive Respiratory Syndrome (PRRS), will be addressed. Financial management for long-term success will be presented Friday morning by Dennis DiPietre, University of Missouri extension economist.

Nutrition for sows and early weaned pigs will be the topics discussed Friday afternoon, from 1 to 4 p.m. In addition, nutrient management from feed to field will be addressed by Gary Cromwell, animal science professor at the University of Kentucky. Management techniques to control swine diseases, such as PRRS, will be topics covered Saturday morning from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Using artificial insemination in hog operations will be presented Saturday morning by Wayne Singleton, animal science professor at Purdue University.

From 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, producers will be able to learn about improving herd health, salmonella, and evaluating manure management systems. Proper hog handling and loading will be addressed by Temple Grandin, a livestock handling expert at Colorado State University. On Sunday, June 11, early weaned pigs and finishing buildings will be among the topics discussed from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. Producer networking will be presented by John McNutt, a pork producer and network participant from Iowa City, Iowa.

Strategies to obtain financing, and hog price margins will be discussed Sunday afternoon, from 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. During that session, the future for U.S. pork exports will be addressed by Al Tank, NPPC vice president of policy and trade.

Pasture Walk Set

FREDERICK, Md. — The first Frederick County Pasture Walk for the 1995 grazing season is scheduled for Wednesday, May 17, from 10 a.m. until noon. Bob and Cindy Harrington will be hosting the event.

This will be the third year of grazing for the Harringtons, who began dairying just three years ago.

The purpose of the Pasture Walk is to allow livestock producers a chance to learn more about the use of rotational grazing as a way to increase agricultural profitability. Most of the time will be spent walking through the pastures discussing grass and clover growth, fencing, and watering systems.

The farm is located at 5816E Jefferson Pike. From the Rt. 15/340 exit in Frederick, go west on Jefferson Pike 1.5 miles. Turn right onto the first lane immediately before Stoney Creek development. From Mt. Zion Road, go east on Jefferson Pike 1.1 miles, turn left onto the second lane after Stoney Creek development. Follow signs to the farm.

Family Farm Thrives On Effort, Enthusiasm

NEWARK, Del.—Harvest 1994 was a never-ending process...row after row of corn, bushel after bushel of soybeans. The Ockels brothers rose early to care for chickens and hogs before working the fields. They continued harvesting well after the sun went down, spending an average of 14 hours each day, every day, for seven weeks, until all of the 4,000 acres they had planted in Sussex County were harvested.

In a time when family farms keep disappearing from the landscape, gobbled up by industrial farms or suburbs, the Ockels' operation stands both as a reminder and an example that family farms are the backbone of the rural community.

The Ockels family includes patriarch Rueben, his wife Cynthia, and their four sons and their families who live on the farm. Three sons—Dale, Gary and Dennis—are active partners. Richard works off of the farm. Cousin Fred Daley, an "honorary brother," also helps the operation.

"Diversification has been important to the operation," said Dale, oldest son and business manager. He said, "We've always wanted to make sure we had something to lose money on."

Crops include corn and soybeans, peas, limas, string beans, and small grains. The family also has a couple of broiler houses and a small hog-finishing operation.

Derby Walker, cooperative extension agricultural agent at the University of Delaware who has worked with the family for more than 20 years, attributes the Ockels' economic success to good resource management skills.

"The Ockels know their costs, how to market and how to diversify," Walker said. "Land is the key to success. The family uses different tillage techniques according to the crop and the land."

In addition to knowing the ins and outs of agricultural production, the Ockels are aware of the environmental issues that challenge the farm community.

"A main concern of farmers is having to convince the public that we have been practicing environmentally sound agriculture for years," Dale said. Most of us in the agricultural community have been caring for our natural resources. If we don't follow conservation practices, chances are we're out of business.

"We scout our fields for pests before we call in a pest control company," he said. "And after cleaning poultry houses, manure is stored in structures rather than stockpiled on bare ground where runoff of excess nitrogen can contaminate groundwater. The manure is tested for nitrogen content and then used to fertilize fields that are nitrogen deficient."

Dale stresses the importance of getting people with farm backgrounds into the environmental field, then adds that his daugher is studying environmental science in college. "Because fewer people are involved with hands-on farming," he said, "there is a need to talk with city cousins to help them understand agricultural concerns.

"The Ockels are willing to take a leadership role in many areas of the agricultural community," Walker said. "They have served on the Farm Bureau, the Soybean Board, the Pork Board, and the Grange. They are willing to spend long hours working in the field, in addition to long hours addressing agricultural issues. That kind of leadership is what makes them such a valuable part of the agricultural community."

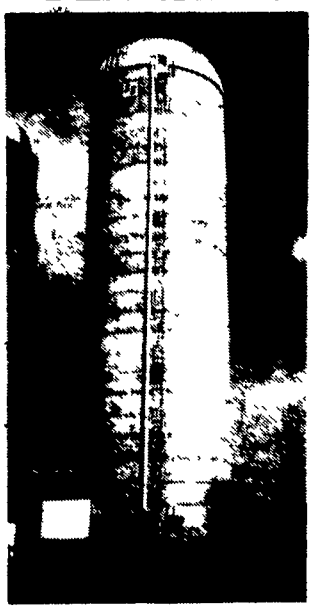
"THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING FEED STORAGE"



30'x100' With Big Jim Drive Thru

"The Big Jim is doing a fine job bringing the feed down. We really believe the drive-thru, Big Jim System is worth anyone's consideration. It is costing more every year to grow forages and we feel our minimal quality and quantity losses are easily paying for the additional initial cost of this investment compared to that of a bunker. We are throwing no feed away and the cows are milking the best they ever have." (over 90 lbs. per cow).

Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel

When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

- A STRONG PROFILE High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.
- MADE TO LAST To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.
- A GREAT LOOKING PANEL You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.
- MORE QUALITY FEATURES Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Soybean Leaders Identify $5 Million Hurdle

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — John Long, first vice president of the American Soybean Association, returned home to his farm in Newberry, S.C. after spending the last two weeks as a member of an official soybean market access team that traveled to Israel, Cyprus, Turkey, Germany, and Belgium.

The team also included ASA President John McClendon, United Soybean Board Secretary Betty Wiese, and USB International Marketing Committee Member Jimmy Barbour.

Long, chairman of the ASA Public Affairs Committee, relates two unexpected events that the team considers quite significant.

In Turkey, the team uncovered a misconception regarding the storage of soybeans that could realistically lead to additional sales of U.S. soybeans to Turkey. Long said, "Apparently some Turkish government officials believed that if soybeans stayed in their government storage facility longer than 20 days, the beans could become damaged or somehow crush themselves. Although local representatives of Cargill had tried unsuccessfully to change this thinking before, they believe that a letter from ASA with some technical information, may satisfy official concerns."

Long said, "ASA can easily provide such information that assures them that longer storage won't hurt their beans. This one small thing, if resolved, could work out to $5 million more in U.S. soybean sales annually."

In Bonn, Germany, the team met with Juergen Feiter, state secretary for the German government, the second highest official in the German Ministry of Agriculture. The U.S. soybean leaders were received as guests of the Germany rapeseed/oilseed industry group Union zur Foerderung von Oel-und Proteinpflanzen (UFOP), a producer, crusher, and seed breeder group that is roughly equivalent to the United States' American Oilseed Coalition. Reuters news service reported on ASA's visit in Germany, and interest by EU traders to reopen Blair House.

Long said, "This group (UFOP) are our competitors. They are on the opposite side from us on the Blair House Agreement (BHA). They want to expand their acreages of rapeseed, and they aren't very happy about (the limitations placed on them by) the BHA. The groups got together in Bonn to talk about the current situation, to perhaps avoid any trade disputes at higher levels."

The group expected Feiter to be sympathetic with UFOP's position. But Long reports that Feiter came right out and said, "Listen, we made a deal on the Blair House, and a deal is a deal. We are going to do everything we can to make sure, at least as far as Germany is concerned, that we abide by it." It is a significant point for an official of the German government to say that they do not support any set-aside planting changes to the Blair House Agreement. Long later said, "This was quite interesting news to hear from a German government official. This is an indication that they do plan, to the best of their ability, to abide by the BHA."

Handicapped Riders Event At Horse Show

MALVERN (Chester Co.) — On Saturday, May 27, Thorncroft Therapeutic Horseback Riding Inc. will again be host to more than 135 riders and drivers who gather in Malvern to compete in one of the largest handicapped horse shows in the country — the handicapped riders event of the Devon Horse Show.

This year is the 16th year of the event, which has become more and more popular with equestrians not only in nearby Chester County, but as far away as Massachusetts, Maryland, and Ohio.

More than 135 riders will join to compete in equitation classes on the flat and over fences, trail, dressage, and costume. Several entries will also participate in the driving division, which consists of a dressage test, obstacle course, and cross-country marathon.

The day is action packed. Thorncroft's drill team, "The Mainstreamers," performs and local associations and Pony Clubs will present their products in booths provided on the property. Friends come from near and far to watch their equestrians ride and to cheer them on.

On Sunday, May 28 the excitement moves up in the Main Line to the Devon Horse Show Grounds, in nearby Devon. Here, winners of the individual divisions from Saturday gather to compete for the final time for the much coveted grand champion award. The prestigious Dixon Oval, the spotlight of the Devon Horse Show, is the site of the grand champion class.

Also on Sunday will be a performance by The Mainstreamers. The team is comprised of 10 riders, five of whom are handicapped and five who are not. Over the years, these ambassadors to Thorncroft have travelled to New York, Virginia, and Harrisburg to present their drill.

Brosius Visits Philadelphia Port

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius toured the Port of Philadelphia and Camden recently with a delegation representing the department's export interests.

"Philadelphia is our window on the world when it comes to export marketing, and I was pleased to see firsthand how Pennsylvania products move into the global market," Brosius said.

"My visit reinforces Gov. Tom Ridge's strong commitment to exports. Increasing exports is an important part of his strategy to make Pennsylvania farms and the agriculture industry more profitable."

The Ridge Administration has proposed the development of a Keystone Export Task Force to provide assistance to Pennsylvania firms interested in exporting. Additionally, the governor's 1995-1996 budget proposal includes $1 million to open new foreign trade offices.

Brosius said he supports efforts which will ultimately result in additional markets for Pennsylvania products and new jobs, which will improve the economy of rural Pennsylvania.

"Having an easily accessible port is a great advantage to moving Pennsylvania-produced products to the international market," Brosius said.

While at the port, the group visited the Food and Distribution Center, one of the largest in the country; the Intermodel Yard, where three major railroads come together to serve the port; and the Tioga Terminal, where Chilean fruit is brought into the United States.

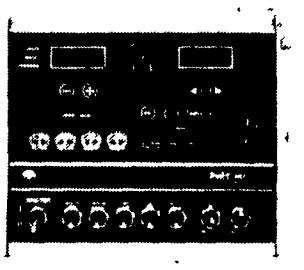
Members of the delegation included John Stark, director of marketing; Peter Witmer, chief of domestic and international trade; Mike Varner, chief of commodity promotions; Louis Sallie, secretary/treasurer of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau; Brenda Briggs, administrator of the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program; Phil Kimball, director of international marketing for the U.S. Export Council; and Larry Wright, apple grower and Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program board member.

Sprayer Control Kit Ensures Accurate Application

WHEATON, Ill.—Spraying Systems Co. introduces the new TeeJet® 855 sprayer control kit. The TeeJet 855 precisely monitors flow rate, pressure, and ground speed, providing applicators with pinpoint control of chemical applications.

"Studies have shown that misapplications of 10 percent or more can easily occur," said Dr. Stephen Pearson, director of technical services for Spraying Systems Co. "If a sprayer is traveling 5 mph and spraying 25 psi, a 10 percent error translates into the speed varying a half mile per hour or the pressure varying 5 psi."

Utilizing innovative technology, the TeeJet 855 provides ongoing flow and pressure comparisons to ensure consistent application accuracy. With both flow and pressure sensors installed, the system has the unique ability to provide redundant rate regulation for maximum accuracy and reliability. In addition, the system can be operated on a single sensor in either flow or pressure-based models.



The TeeJet 855 precisely monitors flow rate, pressure, and ground speed, providing applicators with pinpoint control of chemical applications.

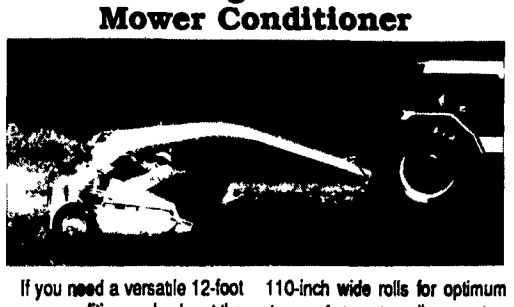
12 Foot Swing Frame Case IH Mower Conditioner



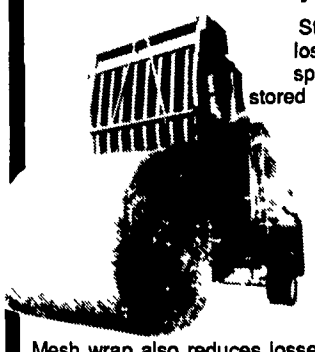
If you need a versatile 12-foot mower conditioner, check out the Case International 8360.

The hydraulic center-pivot hitch increases maneuverability in the field and on the road. A high-speed sickle and dual augers handle heavy crops with ease.

You have inter-meshing 110-inch wide rolls for optimum drying. Automatic roll separation reduces possible roll plugging.

And, since the rolls are easily adjustable, you can treat the crop just right as yields and conditions change. Also, make the change from fluffy windrows to wide swaths quickly and easily, without tools.

Mesh Wrap Attachment



Studies have shown that losses from handling and spoilage for a round bale stored outside can be as high as 30% more for a twine-wrapped bale as opposed to a bale wrapped with mesh. Mesh wrap serves as a barrier to moisture absorption. As a result, quality losses resulting from decomposition are reduced.

Mesh wrap also reduces losses during bale handling and transporting and because fewer turns are produced when wrapping versus tying with dual twine arms (2 to 2.5 wraps vs. 10 to 15 turns), there is significant savings in the time required to finish a bale.

The optional mesh wrap is available as a field-attachment for the following round balers.

First Of Its Kind

The 8315 is the first mower conditioner of its kind to combine a center-pivot tongue and mechanical drive with 15'3" (4.65m) rotary disc cutting performance. With its wide cutting width, the 8315 is designed to handle large acreage hay production.

A hydraulic center-pivot tongue and swivel gearbox hitch enables the 8315 to cut fields in both directions or turn corners with ease. Its rotary disc header features a heavy-duty spur gear cutterbar and 10 oval cutting discs that are powered by a belt and gearbox drive. High-speed discs are heat treated spring steel for durability and spin at 2,600 rpm to slice through the toughest crop conditions. Header tilt is also hydraulically controlled from the cab.

The wide 110" (2.79m) steel-on-steel intermeshing conditioning rolls feature automatic separation for non-plug operation, and adjustable roll spacing and pressure. A swath baffle and adjustable windrow forming shields are standard.

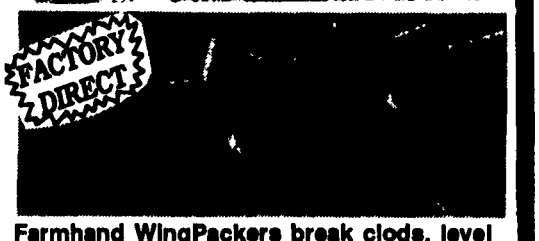
Levels Firms Seals



Farmhand WingPackers break clods, level seedbeds....then gently firm the soil to reduce air pockets and seal in moisture. Flat fold WingPackers range from 19' to 36' wide. Behind a disk harrow or field cultivator, they're an ideal final tool before planting. Behind a drill, they gently but firmly pack soil to increase seed-to-soil contact, improving germination for even field stands.

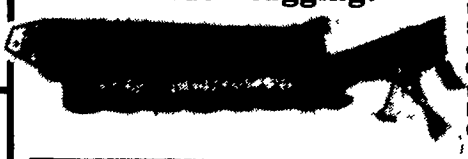
Model 1065 In Stock w/Tandem Axle For Smoother Chopping With All The Finest Features Shown Here!

A Gehl Disc Mower Will Cut Your Most Difficult Crops Quickly Without Plugging!



Reliable, proven heavy-duty disc cutterbar features gear-driven discs, rotating at 3,000 rpm. Gears and bearings are sealed in an oil bath for less wear and long life. The low profile cutterbar design assures a uniform cut, even in dense crops.
Positive four-V-belt drive transmits power to the bevel gearbox.
Self-adjusting compensation spring delivers accurate cutterbar down pressure.
Cutting height is easily adjusted by the tractor top link.
Hydraulic cutterbar lift is standard.

Gehl-The First Name In Forage Harvesting

Model 865 delivers high-capacity at an economy price for extra value. The 865 is designed for use with tractors from 60 to 150 horsepower (1,000 rpm) or up to 120 horsepower with 540 rpm.

Standard equipment includes an in-head hydraulic knife and cutterbar sharpening system, electric controls, one-way shear-bolt protection system, single station cutterbar adjustment and an overrunning clutch. Gehl's Metal-Stop™ metal detector is an available option.

The eight-knife cutterhead is close coupled to the blower for continuous inline crop flow from the cutterhead to the blower to the spout. The cylinder is actually set into the blower-compartment, speeding material flow from the cutterhead into the blower cylinder momentum and blower suction keep material moving, reducing horsepower requirements and fuel consumption.

MODEL 865

YOU'RE SAFER WITH ZETOR POWER.

BECAUSE ZETOR STILL BUILDS ITS TRACTORS ON A CAST IRON CHASSIS.

The weight of the iron provides a low center of gravity so that the tractor won't lose its balance easily That means you're safer on a Zetor The extra weight also provides greater pulling power so you get better performance

In fact Zetor s Series 33 and Series 43 tractors are built with the same power train as Zetor s Series 63 tractors The only difference is in the horsepower That s why Zetor s smaller tractors usually accomplish more than competitive tractors with greater horsepower

Stop spinning your wheels Test drive the only tractor with Zetor Power and rediscover the power a heavy cast iron chassis delivers

The advanced air-cooled engines in the 7600 Series eliminate 40% of the parts that cause engine downtime. No gaskets, no radiators, no water pumps, no hoses, no thermostats, no anti-freeze. Just hassle-free maintenance. Precision individual Bosch fuel injection pumps provide quicker starts, better fuel economy and greater productivity. These high performance 89 to 128 PTO hp tractors also come with 24F/12R transmissions for more versatility. With all-wheel drive and comfortable operator cabs, you get maximum efficiency. Plus, they're backed by a strong AGCO warranty – four years or 4,000 hours as standard. See your local AGCO Allis dealer today, and ask about flexible AGCO financing.

FLUFF 3 WINDROWS IN ONE PASS

You'll cover acres fast, and bale or chop sooner with the Model 169 tedder It uses six rotors to ted a wide 22'8" area. That's wide enough to fluff three windrows from a 9' mower-conditioner. Yet transport width is a narrow 9'8" for easy maneuvering The frame of the "169" is fully articulated, so it hugs the ground to fluff all of your crop for fast drying.
